Collective Decision Making in Water Resource Planning Roy Burke, James P. Heaney, 1975      Multicriteria Analysis Mahdi Zarghami, Ferenc Szidarovszky, 2011-05-27 Multicriteria analysis is one of the most important fields of decision science This book gives an outline of the formulation of an appropriate model and presents a comprehensive summary of the most popular methods for solving multicriteria decision problems In addition to the classical approach the book introduces fuzzy and stochastic methodology models with uncertainty social choice and conflict resolution All methods are illustrated with easy to follow simple examples At the end of each chapter detailed case studies are given in water and environment management including inter basin water transfer urban water management water allocation groundwater quality management forest treatment ranking water resources projects reservoir planning water distribution network design and long term watershed management The new methodology and the wide variety of case studies are not easily accessible elsewhere      Comparison of Decision-making Structures for Decentralized Water Resource Allocation Alejandro Mauricio Deeb, 1975      Water Resources and Decision-Making Systems Cecilia Tortajada, Kevin Parris, 2016-03-23 Water data and information are essential to support efforts to understand manage allocate utilize and protect water resources The linkages between Water Information Systems and needs of decision makers are complex but can be encapsulated in a Driving Force Policy Needs Monitoring Data Management Reporting framework The rapid development in water policy reforms in many sectors and growing emphasis on demand side policy solutions to water resources management has created an information imbalance This imbalance can be characterised in terms of an inverted pyramid with implementation of many water policy initiatives supported by little data and information especially related to economic and financial elements to help guide decision makers toward more effective and efficient water resources management strategies Additionally as stress and demands on water systems increase and water becomes a more valued resource this tends to increase the value of water information both for water providers and users Nevertheless many countries are reporting that the capacity to collect water information is being undermined by a lack of resources while expertise to collect analyse and interpret water data for decision makers is being lost Finally the impact of climate change on hydrological regimes represents a key potential stress on water systems This issue could be the catalyst for adapting policies to provide more efficient and effective use and management of water resources and advance institutional and governance reforms in the water sector This book is based on a special issue of the International Journal of Water Resources Development Federal Decisionmaking for Water Resource Development Alfred Allan Schmid, United States.
