Decision Making In Educational Settings:

Decision Making in Educational Settings Charles C. Sharman, 1984 This booklet reviews decision making an important part of administrative processes from the perspective of school teachers and other educators The two most commonly used processes are the rational decision making process identify the problem evaluate the problem collect information identify alternative solutions select and implement solutions evaluate the decision and the modified rational decision making process minimal problem definition then solution decision Good leaders should differentiate between routine and nonroutine processes Nonroutine decisions are complex and require time and careful deliberation Leaders have the power to make unilateral decisions but doing so does not mean they will make good decisions Experience shows better decisions are made when others are involved whom to involve and when to involve them are important components for successful leaders Herbert Simon's Zone of Acceptance model posits a zone in which subordinates are willing to accept leaders decisions without their involvement as against situations where not being involved would fall outside their zone of acceptance Speed and accuracy in decision making are not always compatible Other decision making techniques outlined are force field analysis brainstorming minimal group technique forced choices compromise and consensus The booklet includes an exercise in which the reader makes decisions and compares them with correct ones as well as a brief bibliography MD

Decision Making in Educational Leadership Stephanie Chitpin, Colin W. Evers, 2014-06-05 The increased focus on raising standards in education requires leaders to engage in complex decision making about teacher assessment mandated accountability measures and the collection and use of large amounts of data Showcasing exemplary practices of school and district administrators Decision Making in Educational Leadership covers issues concerning the role of emotion ethical and legal ramifications the use of data and complexity in decision making Chapter authors in this research based volume explore what administrators and school leaders actually know about educational problems how they draw upon and revise theories of action for responding to problems and which theories are tenable in educational decision making This important resource provides a broad and international perspective on effective models and methods of educational decision making and shares valuable knowledge about how theory can be translated into practice in a variety of school settings

Decision Making for Educational Leaders Bob L. Johnson Jr., Sharon D. Kruse, 2012-02-01 Why another book on decision making In this increasingly complex world there are many tensions inherent in the daily practice of school leaders This book illuminates these tensions and acknowledges the reality that there are already multiple approaches to decision making in any school The authors offer a guide to integrate the influences of school and community members as well as data and organizational context into the decision making process They focus on underexamined dimensions of decision making including 1 the art of theory use 2 organizational context 3 political dynamics 4 inferential leaps and causal assumptions 5 the role of intuition 6 data driven decision making 7 the role of emotions and affect and 8 making the tough decision Dispositions that enhance success are highlighted These ideas will empower school principals superintendents and other leaders to approach with confidence the decisions they are called on to make

Data-based Decision Making in Education Kim Schildkamp, Mei Kuin Lai, Lorna Earl, 2012-09-17 In a context where schools are held more and more accountable for the education they provide data based decision making has become increasingly important This book brings together scholars from several countries to examine data based decision making Data based decision making in this book refers to making decisions based on a broad range of evidence such as scores on students assessments classroom observations etc This book supports policy makers people working with schools researchers and school leaders and teachers in the use of data by bringing together the current research conducted on data use across multiple countries into a single volume Some of these studies are best practice studies where effective data use has led to improvements in student learning Others provide insight into challenges in both policy and practice environments Each of them draws on research and literature in the field

Ethical Leadership and Decision Making in Education Joan Poliner Shapiro,Jacqueline A. Stefkovich,2016-01-08 The fourth edition of the best selling text Ethical Leadership and Decision Making in Education continues to address the increasing interest in ethics and assists educational leaders with the complex dilemmas in today's challenging and diverse society. Through discussion and analysis of real-life moral dilemmas that educational leaders face in their schools and communities, authors Shapiro and Stefkovich demonstrate the application of the four ethical paradigms: the ethics of justice, care, critique, and profession. After an illustration of how the Multiple Ethical Paradigm approach may be applied to real dilemmas, the authors present a series of cases written by students and academics in the field representing the dilemmas faced by practicing educational leaders in urban, suburban, and rural settings in an era full of complications and contradictions. Following each case are questions that call for thoughtful, complex thinking and help readers come to grips with their own ethical codes and apply them to practical situations.

New in the Fourth Edition: A new chapter on technology versus respect focusing on ethical issues such as cyber bullying and sexting; New cases on teachers with guns, the military and education children of undocumented immigrants, homeless students, videos in bathrooms, incentive pay for first responders, private alternative high schools, verbal threats, and gaming etiquette. Updates throughout to reflect contemporary issues and recent scholarship in the field of ethical leadership. This edition adds teaching notes for the instructor that stress the importance of self-reflection, use of new technologies, and global appeal of ethical paradigms and dilemmas. Easily adaptable to a variety of uses, this book is a critical resource for a wide range of audiences, including both aspiring and practicing administrators, teacher leaders, and educational policy makers.
