Revolution Joseph Jacobelli, 2021-06-21 Asia is home to 60 per cent of the world's population including the world's two most populous nations China and India The region's economic gains and rising middle class are accelerating demand for more consumer goods and a better quality of life For further economic growth to be realised the region will need a massive supply of additional energy three to five fold 2020's amount by 2050 These changes create new business and investment opportunities for domestic companies and overseas participants Asia's energy market already the world's biggest will soon be the most advanced There will be mass adoption of digital technologies like artificial intelligence to make the distribution of solar wind and other clean resources smarter and more efficient Led by China billions of dollars in capital investment will drive the region's shift to green sustainable energy replacing polluting and expensive fossil fuels which will help to rein in climate change In Asia's Energy Revolution leading energy markets analyst and practitioner Joseph Jacobelli explains why Asia is the world's most important territory for energy transition how developments in the region will drive change in the rest of the world as well as how it will all be financed The book discussion includes Analysis of past events and forward looking analysis of the industry in the region encompassing commercial economic and financial aspects Appraisal of new energy technologies such as electric vehicles and digital solutions such as blockchain for energy Review of the capital flows and sustainable financing channels needed to fund energy infrastructure and tech growth Asia's Energy Security Amid Global Market Change ,2016 With the major shifts in global energy markets prospects for advancing Asia's long term energy security have improved dramatically Nonetheless uncertainties about future market conditions and policies risk undermining progress In this NBR Special Report top experts examine shifts in global oil and LNG market outlooks the geopolitical implications for the Asia Pacific and options for strengthening energy and environmental policy across the region Energy Market Integration in East Asia Yanrui Wu,Fukunari Kimura,Xunpeng Shi,2013-12-04 East Asian nations through the dialogue between ASEAN and its partners have been promoting energy market integration EMI for a decade The formation of the East Asian Summit EAS group in 2005 adds new momentum to the EMI course in the region The objective of this edited volume is to present new insights into the understanding of EMI in East Asia and draw implications for further development This book is the first publication of its kind exclusively focusing on EMI in East Asia The chapters are written by a distinguished group of specialists in the field of energy policy business and economics The covered topics range from the general debates about EMI to regional policy responses A variety of qualitative and quantitative methods are employed in this book For qualitative methods public goods theory and the comparative study method are two examples The quantitative methods include economic growth theory principle component approach input output table computable general equilibrium CGE models and econometric techniques Important policy implications can be drawn from the findings One clear message is that EMI should be promoted actively but in a gradual incremental manner Other policy implications are related to inter regional governance infrastructure development and gas market integration The content has not been published elsewhere and hence makes a unique contribution to the literature There are also case studies of specific energy sectors such as petroleum and natural gas Overall this book should be of interest to a wide audience such as academia business analysts and policy makers China's Carbon-Energy Policy and Asia's Energy Transition Akihisa Mori,2021-12-29 This book seeks to examine the impacts associated with China's carbon energy policy in Asia and how coupled with the Belt and Road Initiative these effects prompt foreign direct investments in coal power and exports of renewable energy technologies China shows a co evolution of carbon energy policy and energy transitions from coal to renewables Assessing how the policy intensifies pressures and motivations to Chinese companies chapters in this edited volume analyse how the policy has changed energy and CO2 emissions in Asia through the lens of carbon leakage relocation and halos Contributors present in depth studies on China's investments and exports and also its impacts on Indonesia, India, Vietnam, and Japan. Using applied computable general equilibrium and scenario input-output analyses, chapters investigate if regional electricity connectivity reduces new coal power investments through efficiency gain. Arguing that China is shifting from the world's factory to the leading innovator and Asia's demand centre, it is ultimately demonstrated that China is likely to achieve climate targets whereas Asia to increase CO<sub>2</sub> emissions and economic reliance on China. China's Carbon Energy Policy and Asia's Energy Transition will be of significant interest to students and scholars of energy, environment, and sustainability studies, as well as Chinese studies and economics.

Asia's Energy Security Amid Global Market Change, 2016. With the major shifts in global energy markets, prospects for advancing Asia's long-term energy security have improved dramatically. Nonetheless, uncertainties about future market conditions and policies risk undermining progress. In this NBR Special Report, top experts examine shifts in global oil and LNG market outlooks, the geopolitical implications for the Asia Pacific, and options for strengthening energy and environmental policy across the region.

Asia's Energy Revolution Joseph Jacobelli, 2021-06-21. Asia is home to 60 per cent of the world's population, including the world's two most populous nations, China and India. The region's economic gains and rising middle class are accelerating demand for more consumer goods and a better quality of life. For further economic growth to be realised, the region will need a massive supply of additional energy, three to five fold 2020's amount, by 2050. These changes create new business and investment opportunities for domestic companies and overseas participants. Asia's energy market, already the world's biggest, will soon be the most advanced. There will be mass adoption of digital technologies like artificial intelligence to make the distribution of solar, wind, and other clean resources smarter and more efficient. Led by China, billions of dollars in capital investment will drive the region's shift to green, sustainable energy, replacing polluting and expensive fossil fuels, which will help to rein in climate change. In Asia's Energy Revolution, leading energy markets analyst and practitioner Joseph Jacobelli explains why Asia is the world's most important territory for energy transition, how developments in the region will drive change in the rest of the world, as well as how it will all be financed. The book discussion includes analysis of past events and forward-looking analysis of the industry in the region, encompassing commercial, economic, and financial aspects; appraisal of new energy technologies such as electric vehicles and digital solutions such as blockchain for energy; review of the capital flows and sustainable financing channels needed to fund energy infrastructure and tech growth.

Ollapally,2016-12-01 Many states appear to have strong sentiment on energy security and energy transit vulnerability Some analysts see the rapidly increasing demand for energy and competition for energy resources leading to nationalistic energy policies Others argue that global trends with efficient energy markets and growing options on renewables suggest more relaxed energy outlooks This book focuses on Asia where global demand for energy is now concentrated in the aspiring and rising powers of the region China India Japan and South Korea and also recognises the importance of Russia as a growing energy supplier Contributions by experts in the field provide detailed and parallel case studies Shedding light on the ongoing debate in the literature regarding energy outlooks of major Asian states they analyse whether energy policies are expected to evolve along market oriented cooperative lines or more competitive and even destructive mercantile nationalist lines The book argues that states are not unitary actors even in the key energy security arena and there are competing and contrasting viewpoints in Asian states on energy security It suggests that domestic debates structure thinking on energy security making energy policy more contingent than assumed by purely market or geopolitical logics Providing a strong contribution to comparative energy security studies the book fills an important gap in the literature on energy and national security and offers a basis for conducting further inter state interactive analysis It will be of interest to researchers on Asian Studies energy politics and international relations
