Asian Regionalism And Its Effects:

Asian Regionalism and Its Effects on Trade in the 1980s and 1990s Ramon L. Clarete, Christopher Edmonds, Jessica Seddon Wallack, 2002 Outlines the major preferential trade agreements PTAs in Asia and other regions and reviews trends in trade flows Uses a model to estimate the effect of various PTAs on trade flows within and across membership groupings as well as the effect of PTAs on members trade with Asian countries On the basis of these estimates the report is able to categorize 11 major PTAs into those that increase intrabloc trade at the expense of their respective imports from the rest of the world those that expand their respective trade among their members without reducing their trade with nonmembers and those that reduce trade with nonmembers without significant changes in intrabloc trade Also shows that PTAs have augmented trade in Asia

Asian Economic Cooperation in the New Millennium Calla Wiemer, Heping Cao, American Committee on Asian Economic Studies, 2004 This volume is the outgrowth of a conference held at Peking University in May 2002 jointly sponsored by the American Committee on Asian Economic Studies the Peking University School of Economics and the China Reform Forum The contributors include leading scholars from Asia as well as specialists on Asia from the US Europe and Australia The book delves into issues of trade and investment exchange rates and macroeconomic policy and preferential trade agreements and other forms of economic cooperation The overall message is one of regional dynamism animated by concerted efforts to build a favorable institutional environment China is a great motivating force in this dynamism and a key player in the development of regional agreements

New East Asian Regionalism Charles Harvie, Fukunari Kimura, 2005 East Asian countries currently the most dynamic region of the global economy have recently pursued trade liberalization through the adoption of various forms of bilateral and plurilateral Free Trade Agreements FTAs The book explores the key issues and possible outcomes arising from this departure from the region's traditional multilateral approach to trade liberalization Implications of this new approach for the region as a whole and key participating individual economies and blocs of economies are emphasized New East Asian Regionalism includes up to date analysis of the most recent developments in FTAs between countries in East Asia as well as those involving countries from outside the region Furthermore the book includes invaluable projections on economic and welfare outcomes of regional trade agreements using the very latest empirical techniques and data The book also considers the implications arising from closer financial integration in the region This book will be warmly welcomed by scholars of regional science international economics and business as well as Asian studies Policymakers at both the national government and international organization level will also find this book of great interest

International Handbook on the Economics of Integration Miroslav N. Jovanović, 2011-01-31 International Handbook of Economic Integration edited by Miroslav Jovanović provides timely and rich academic contributions to considerations of the widest array of integration related issues European integration has been providing an inspiration to a number of academics and researchers The Handbook is a recognition of the dynamic and strong solidarity of the European integration At the same time the European Union often provided an example for integration schemes throughout the world which spread enormously since the mid 1990s Leading experts from all continents contributed to this Handbook which will be a valuable input into academic and policy making discussions and actions Jos Manuel Barroso President of the European Commission Miroslav Jovanovi s publication represents a rich contribution to the complex issue of regional integration its benefits its shortcomings and its relationship with multilateral trade opening It sheds light over an issue which is the subject of intense discussions in trade circles Pascal Lamy Director General of the WTO Much has been written on trade agreements as a mechanism to integrate the markets of two or more countries often inspired by the European example In recent years attention has increasingly focused on the importance of economic geography as a determinant of industrial location This book combines the two strands of analysis bringing together leading experts in the fields of economic geography and international trade The result is an outstanding compilation of papers that illuminate how policies and economic forces affect the location of economic activity in an integrated Europe Bernard Hoekman Director The World Bank US The open multilateral trading system is a tremendous success of the past half century and has contributed greatly to the world s unprecedented rate of economic growth Over the past two decades however preferential trading arrangements have proliferated raising questions as to how compatible they are with the open multilateral system and what policies might be adopted to improve outcomes The essays in this volume detail the emergence of PTAs and provide comprehensive and up to date analyses of the state of play of preferential arrangements in all regions of the world The volume will provide a useful reference for all those wanting to understand existing preferential arrangements and their role in the international economy today Anne O Krueger Johns Hopkins University and Stanford University US Economic integration is a complex and multifaceted giant with a myriad aspects ranging from regional and global concentration and dispersal of economic activity to social and political consequences for individuals and communities in developed and developing countries alike This landmark three volume collection of chapters by leading authors drawn from many fields is a worthy and timely contribution to the analysis of a phenomenon with profound implications for the future world economy and its governance James Zhan Director Investment agriculture and environment and quantitative studies of integration effects A removal of barriers for the mobility of factors in certain integration arrangements among countries has an impact on the mobility of capital firms and individuals within the group Various aspects of this factor mobility are analysed in eight detailed chapters The second theme of the Handbook is devoted to agriculture and environment This is of great global relevance as the Common Agricultural Policy of the EU has been a bone of contention in international relations over several decades Finally seven quantitative studies of the effects of integration attempt to measure various potential benefits of regional integration efforts Contributors to this major reference work include eminent authors some of whom contributed to the creation of economic integration theory from the outset The authors not only survey the literature but also present their own arguments and new ideas in order to offer a new perspective as well as discussing the issues they believe are essential in the field Each of the insightful chapters is approachable not only to graduate students scholars researchers and policymakers but also to advanced undergraduate students

Regional Institutions, Geopolitics and Economics in the Asia-Pacific Steven B. Rothman,Utpal Vyas,Yoichiro Sato,2017-04-21 This volume discusses the relationship between economic interests motivations of state action and the interaction of states in the potential for regional institutional development in the Asia Pacific region

East Asia Integrates Kathie L. Krumm,Homi J. Kharas,2004 Emerging East Asian economies have seen their share of world exports more than triple during the past 25 years a trend driven by intraregional trade Increasingly the development agenda in the region focusing on growth jobs and social stability has become interconnected with trade policy aspects including market access and competitiveness In the light of these links this collection of papers discusses fundamental strategies to promote cross border trade flows both globally and regionally along with domestic policies on logistics trade facilitation standards and institutions in order to maximise development outcomes and distribute the gains from trade widely

Chinese-Japanese Competition and the East Asian Security Complex Jeffrey Reeves,Jeffrey Hornung,Kerry Lynn Nankivell,2017-07-14 This volume examines contemporary diplomatic economic and security competition between China and Japan in the Asia Pacific region The book outlines the role that Sino Japanese competition plays in East Asian security an area of study largely overlooked in contemporary writing on Asian security which tends to focus on US China relations and or US hegemony in Asia The volume focuses on Chinese and Japanese foreign policy under President Xi Jinping and Prime Minister Shinz Abe and regional security dynamics within and between Asian states institutions since 2012 It employs regional security complex theory as a theoretical framework to view Chinese and Japanese competition in the Asian region In doing so the volume draws on a levels of analysis approach to demonstrate the value in looking at security in the Asia Pacific from a regional rather than global perspective The vast majority of existing research on the region's security tends to focus on great power relations and treats Asia as a sub region within the larger global security architecture In contrast this volume shows how competition between the two largest Asian economies shapes East Asia's security environment and drives security priorities across Asia's sub regions As such this collection provides an important contribution to discussion on security in Asia one with potential to influence both political and military policy makers security practitioners and scholars This book will be of much interest to students of Asian politics regional security diplomacy and international relations

Development Journal United Nations, United Nations Publications, 2005-03-11 The primary emphasis of the Asia Pacific Development Journal is the publishing of based policy oriented articles that can engage the attention of policy makers academicians and researchers The articles analyze development issues and problems relevant to the Asia Pacific region This issue discusses the following topics bond markets in the Pacific rim developing debt markets in Singapore developing bond markets to diversify long term development finance SME subcontracting as a bridgehead to competitiveness human resource competitiveness and inflow of foreign direct investment to the ASEAN region The Journal is issued twice a year The Trade and Investment Effects of Preferential Trading Arrangements Philippa Dee, Jyothi Gali, 2003 This study quantifies the impact of traditional and new age provisions of preferential trading arrangements PTAs on merchandise trade and investment It does so by estimating gravity models of bilateral trade and investment It finds that recent and some past PTAs are not as benign as some contemporary empirical assessments have suggested A careful consideration of the analytical issues including controlling comprehensively for other observable and unobservable factors and testing explicitly for whether the trade and investment effects are significantly different after PTA formation than before accounts for less favourable finding in this study It is also possible for PTAs to have adverse effects on investment flows If investment responds in beachhead fashion to the trade provisions of PTAs the trade carried out from those beachheads could constitute traditional trade diversion However the paper finds little evidence of beachhead investment Instead it finds evidence of net investment creation in response to the new age non trade provisions of PTAs Thus the finding on investment is more positive than for trade but not without qualifications since trade diversion is still possible from the new investment positions NBER website
