Aspects of Birmingham Brian Hall,2001 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,2004 New Directions in Local History Since Hoskins Christopher Dyer,Andrew James Hopper,Evelyn Lord,Nigel J. Tringham,2011 Local history in Britain can trace its origins back to the sixteenth century and before but it was given inspiration and a new sense of direction in the 1950s and 60s by the work of W G Hoskins This book marks the fiftieth anniversary of the publication of his Local history in England which was designed to help people researching the history of their own villages and towns It is the result of a collaboration between academic historians in the Centre for English Local History at the University of Leicester which Hoskins founded and the British Association for Local History an organisation that brings together the thousands of people who are not professional academics but who practise local history Taking the work of Hoskins as a starting point the contributors show how local history is being researched and written today Fifteen historians write about a variety of local history subjects which are significant in their own right but which also point to current trends in the subject They show how local historians use their sources systematically from the non verbal evidence of buildings to various types of electronic resources All periods between the middle ages and the early twenty first century are explored as are many different parts of the country from Skye to the Kent coast There are examples of local historians working on ethnic minorities gender and the working class Those who study localities use a variety of approaches including those of social economic religious legal intellectual and cultural history all of which are employed here They are aware of the roots of their subject and examine the history of local history itself Together the editors and authors raise the various dilemmas which stimulate debates among local historians about the nature of the subject its present health and the directions it will take in the next half century The Historical Archaeology of the Sheffield Cutlery and Tableware Industry, 1750-1900 Victoria Beauchamp,James Symonds,Joan Unwin,2002 Made in Sheffield still carries a huge amount of credibility both nationally and abroad These pages chronicle the history of the men and women who originally gave these three simple words their standing in the world today This volume is the first in a new series of studies in historical archaeology Bringing together the work of archaeologists historians and others this publication examines the Sheffield cutlery industry from Chaucer s time and before right up to the present day Aspects of Birmingham Brian Hall,2011-10-01 There are now over 25 books published as part of the Aspects Series each one taking readers on a voyage of nostalgic discovery through their town city or area Here Birmingham once The Workshop of the Empire is revealed in twelve studies of the city and its people Here we find Birmingham Municipal Bank the only successful council operated bank and Lesser Known Characters about the city We see the work of the Birmingham Mission and Birmingham Children s Emigration Homes During the troubled 1930 s Birmingham held a Great Pageant and as war clouds gathered over Europe the city s young men fought in The Spanish Civil War All this and so much more is available in this the first Aspects of Birmingham History Today ,1982 The Historian ,2002

Shaping the Day Paul Glennie, Nigel Thrift, 2009-02-12 Timekeeping is an essential activity in the modern world and we take it for granted that our lives are shaped by the hours of the day Yet what seems so ordinary today is actually the extraordinary outcome of centuries of technical innovation and circulation of ideas about time Shaping the Day is a pathbreaking study of the practice of timekeeping in England and Wales between 1300 and 1800 Drawing on many unique historical sources ranging from personal diaries to housekeeping manuals Paul Glennie and Nigel Thrift illustrate how a particular kind of common sense about time came into being and how it developed during this period Many remarkable figures make their appearance ranging from the well known such as Edmund Halley Samuel Pepys and John Harrison who solved the problem of longitude to less familiar characters including sailors gamblers and burglars Overturning many common perceptions of the past for example that clock time and the industrial revolution were intimately related this unique historical study will engage all readers interested in how telling the time has come to dominate our way of life The Local Historian ,2002 A Bibliography of Industrial Relations G. S. Bain, Gillian B. Woolven, G. B. Woolven, 1979-03-29 Reference book comprising a bibliography aiming to bring together secondary source interdisciplinary material on labour relations in the UK between the years 1880 and 1970 covers employees attitudes trade unions and employees associations employers organizations the labour market and working conditions etc British Medical Journal ,1884 Proceedings of the Wesley Historical Society Wesley Historical Society, 2003 List of members in v 4 5 7 10 The Literary World ,1894 Encyclopaedia of Religion and Ethics James Hastings, John Alexander Selbie, Louis Herbert Gray, 1911 American Book Publishing Record ,2006 The Amateur Historian ,1963 Seeing History Hilda Kean, Sally J. Morgan, Paul Martin, 2000 In recent years Public History the engagement with history now has grown in Britain Visits to heritage sites museums and galleries are packed with enthusiasts In this collection the contributors write about history as part of a living present which is re created contested and challenged The starting points are places people and images the writers encounter in their everyday lives They have a commitment to those whose lives are still excluded from historical practice and their essays blur the boundaries between history art culture and everyday life Recusant History ,1981 A journal of research in Post Reformation Catholic history in the British Isles Transport History ,1981 Antiquarian Book Monthly Review ,1977
