Successful Strategic Planning Michael Dooris, John Kelley, James F. Trainer, 2004-12-21 Planning reflects the human appetite to improve our condition In higher education improving one s condition includes hiring better faculty recruiting stronger students upgrading facilities strengthening academic programs and student services and acquiring the resources needed to accomplish these things The strategic part of strategic planning involves shaping the institution in ways that will ensure mission attainment by capturing and maintaining a market niche in the competition for resources faculty and students This is the 123rd issue of the Jossey Bass higher education report New Directions for Institutional Research

New Directions for Institutional Research, 2001 Unique Campus Contexts Insights for Research and Assessment Jason E. Lane, M. Christopher Brown, II, 2004 This volume summarizes what we know about professional schools transnational campuses proprietary schools religious institutions and corporate universities As the fabric of higher education becomes more complex and as students take advantage of these specialized educational environments conducting meaningful and relevant research becomes a challenge. The volume authors argue for the importance of educational context and debunk the one size fits all approach to assessment and evaluation. Each chapter examines the critical areas in need of attention and the implications for institutional research and outcomes assessment. Those approaching the challenge of research and policy analysis within this collage of diverse institutions and distinctive student populations will find this volume to be a valuable guide. This is the 124th issue of the quarterly report New Directions for Institutional Research. Conducting Institutional Research in

Non-Campus-Based Settings Robert K. Toutkoushian, 2008. Expanding the understanding of the nature of institutional research, this volume documents alternative ways that it is currently being carried out beyond the confines of a traditional campus based IR office. Chapters show how institutional research is being conducted by public university system offices, state higher education coordinating boards, institutional affiliated research offices, and higher education consultants. Chapter topics discussed include: Developing a Statewide Student Tracking Tool, The Role of Consultants in Institutional Research, Collaborating on State Level Institutional Research in New Hampshire, NH Paper Using College Board Data to Examine Trends in New Hampshire's College Bound Students, Virginia Improves Teaching and Learning VITAL: A Comprehensive Statewide Data System for Teacher Quality, Confronting Ambiguity, Anarchy and Crisis in Institutional Research Using Student Unit Record Databases in Extra Institutional Research. Because these entities often do not have ready access to campus specific data, they must be creative in finding ways to obtain data and information that enable them to provide a value added function in the field. The chapter authors highlight ways in which these offices acquire and use information for institutional research. This is the 139th volume of the Jossey-Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Institutional Research. Always timely and comprehensive, New Directions for Institutional Research provides planners and administrators in all types of academic institutions with guidelines in such areas as resource coordination, information analysis, program evaluation, and institutional management. Proven Strategies for Building an Information Literacy Program Susan Carol Curzon, Lynn D. Lampert, 2007. The result is an indispensable volume that provides an integrated, comprehensible approach for creating a successful, sustained program. Space: The Final Frontier for Institutional Research Nicolas A.

Valcik, 2007-10-12. Providing adequate floor space in today's educational institutions to accommodate future growth has been facilitated by twenty-first century technology such as GIS data systems. The Assessment of Student Development

Outcomes Gary R. Hanson, 1989. Resources in Education, 1988. Serves as an index to Eric reports, microform. Using Quantitative Data to Answer Critical Questions Frances K. Stage, 2007-05-04. This volume challenges quantitative researchers to become more critical. By providing examples from the work of several prominent researchers and by offering concrete recommendations, the editor and authors deliver messages that are likely to cause many educational researchers to reexamine their own work. Traditional quantitative research tends to be probabilistic and often masks the experiences of many subgroups in the population Most models frameworks and findings that apply to the majority of students and faculty may not adequately apply to important subpopulations as defined by their entry status financial condition residential origin sex ethnicity and religious orientation The collective efforts described here will help readers become more sensitive to the nuances among various educational groups and to pay more attention to outliers This volume supplies both motivation and analytical support to those who might incorporate criticality into their own quantitative work as well as to those who wish read critical perspectives with an open mind about what they might find This is the 133rd volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Institutional Research
