The Family Functioning Scale Ludwig L. Geismar,Michael Camasso,1993 Educating for Child Welfare Practice ,1998 Family Health Social Work Practice John T. Pardeck,2002 Pardeck and his contributors approach the topic of family health from a macro perspective Family health is a holistic approach to treatment embracing aspects of family functioning not typically considered in other more traditional approaches to assessment and treatment They place particular emphasis on the ecological context in which the family functions including the neighborhood community and other larger social systems Family health is defined as the development of and continuous interaction among the physical mental emotional social economic cultural and spiritual dimensions of the family that result in the holistic well being of the family and its members The chapters in the book are guided by a number of key premises including a Family health social work practice is grounded in a biopsychosocial approach to assessment and treatment b Family health is based in a systems ecological approach to assessment and intervention because of the role that various systems play in the well being of the family c Family health views the family system as the most important system for promoting the growth and development of the person d Family health social work practice requires close collaboration between social work practitioners and other professionals Based on these basic premises Pardeck focuses on the macro level issues of family health practice that include community intervention policy and program development and program administration The book is an important resource for social work professionals scholars students and other researchers involved with social work practice and human services

Measuring Outcomes in Children's Services Anne M. Christner, 1998

Family Policy Symposium, 1997

Preserving Families Ying-Ying T. Yuan, Michele Rivest, 1990

Providing excellent insights into evaluation Preserving Families examines the issues related to describing and evaluating social programs for families and children The focus is on keeping the family intact rather than those programs that emphasize removing the child from the family setting The contributors offer an in depth discussion of program features that are important for conducting an evaluation including program description target populations client outcomes cost analysis and evaluation design Each chapter raises issues that are pertinent to designing a comprehensive or a special focus study including a detailed description of program components Preserving Families is an essential tool for understanding policy analysis and program evaluation and also provides practical case materials for classroom instruction The monograph offers a number of suggestions and illustrations for making evaluations relevant to real world policymakers and program managers It is a great tool that will help demystify evaluation and will help people in the family preservation field and in related fields feel competent in helping define and shape the evaluation agenda in ways that will produce useful and usable findings It provides great case material for classroom instruction in program evaluation and policy analysis

Sandy M O Donnell Roosevelt University Offers a comprehensive assessment of evaluation resources for practitioners and policy makers It provides a sound overview of the uses of evaluation as well the construction of study designs including defining a target population fitting evaluation to a program environment appraising outcome measures and cost analysis This collection is valuable to any professional working in the field of family based home based or family preservation services

Family Based Resource Review The editors have succeeded in providing a volume that will be helpful not only to family service evaluators and administrators but also to family policy instructors and researchers

Journal of Marriage and the Family This manual makes an invaluable contribution to the family preservation movement the centerpiece of child welfare reform This comprehensive how to step by step guide arrives at a crucial time meeting a growing demand for evaluation for family preservation services Experts in the child welfare and mental health fields have provided a pertinent and easily understood response to an urgent question How can a design for an evaluation be produced that will provide reliable data for practitioners administrators and policymakers

Esther Wattenberg University of Minnesota Provides the most current information on crisis intervention work with high risk multiproblem families For readers interested in program evaluation of family preservation services the book is a must Read Preserving Families for thoughtful practical suggestions relative to evaluating family preservation programs

Journal of Marital and Family Therapy The importance of accurate and available evaluation to social policy formulation is a critical issue that is often ignored because this type of research is generally lacking Special research techniques and methods need to be considered in order to answer policy questions This book is an important contribution to that end The methods and techniques described by these authors are certainly applicable to other social service policy areas as well Clearly written this is a volume for hands on planners and evaluators it is not intimidating nor is it condescending Family Relations      Understanding Generalist Practice with Families Grafton H. Hull (Jr.),2006 Hull and Mather s book introduces students to the professional abilities needed when working with families Using a generalist perspective the book builds on the knowledge and skills students have acquired in other courses and provides keen insight on the specific theories and skills associated with family systems and family practice      Family-focused Practice in Out-of-home Care Dennis J. Brazier,1996 Family Focused Practice in Out of Home Care provides practical hands on support to help agencies bring a family focus to their policy administrative and program structures It goes further to describe an agency s process of change from a traditional out of home care agency to one that develops and improves relationships with families of children in care      Families in Society ,2009
