Malaney, 1999-04-13 Representing the most major effort to date to examine the student affairs research office this issue of New Directions for Student Services shows how this research can enhance and support the work of the student services staff and the campus at large. The contributors describe how student affairs and faculty can collaborate to create an agenda for student related research, review technological aids for collecting and analyzing data, and discuss how student affairs researchers can make their role more vital to the campus by expanding into policy analysis and information brokering. The volume also reports the results of a national study of thirty five centralized student affairs research offices including information on the types of research they have conducted and how institutional reorganization has impacted their research missions. This is the 85th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Student Services.

Learner-centered Assessment on College Campuses Mary E. Huba, Jann E. Freed, 2000. This resource is a well constructed introduction to learner centered assessment complete with practical ready to implement assessment techniques. Designed to bring you up to speed quickly the book is grounded in the principles of constructivist learning theory and continuous improvement. It helps you to connect with what you already know about assessment, integrate that knowledge with new information, and try new approaches to enhance your students learning. You see clearly what it means to shift from a teacher centered paradigm of instruction to a learner centered paradigm.

Diversity Works Daryl G. Smith, 1997. This report presents a review of the literature and an annotated bibliography of research on the impact of campus diversity initiatives on American college students. First an executive summary concludes that overall the literature suggests that diversity initiatives positively affect both minority and majority students on campus. It specifically identifies successful strategies such as programs which focus on the transition to college of underrepresented students, mentoring programs, specialized student support programs, programs which emphasize opportunities for interaction between and among student groups, and serious engagement with diversity issues in the curriculum and classroom. The two chapters of Part 1 provide a context for campus diversity research and explain the framework for searching, organizing, and analyzing the literature. Part 2 presents the research findings in four chapters which address 1) representation, inclusion, and success of underrepresented populations; 2) campus climate and intergroup relations; 3) education and scholarship; curriculum, teaching, and learning; and 4) institutional transformation. Findings on comprehensive campus commitments to diversity. A final chapter considers implications for the future. An annotated bibliography provides abstracts for over 250 related articles and books.
