Africapolis measured over 8 700 urban agglomerations in 2020, with 1 100 new agglomerations identified since 2015. Africapolis' definition of an urban agglomeration is based on a spatial approach and applies a physical criterion – a continuously built-up area – and a demographic criterion – more than 50 000 inhabitants. An urban unit is defined by combining satellite and aerial cartographic sources. The data are designed to enable comparative and long-term analysis of urbanization dynamics in Africa.
