A Just And Moral Society:

Kant's Moral Metaphysics Benjamin J. Bruxvoort Lipscomb, James Krueger, 2010 Main description Recent interpreters of Kant's moral philosophy and contemporary advocates of neo-Kantian moral theories generally minimize the importance of Kant's metaphysical beliefs. This volume re-evaluates these minimizing approaches, exploring Kantian positions on such topics as the relation between God and ethics, the metaphysics of human freedom, and the possibility of knowledge of God. This volume is the first to examine all of these topics within the context of Kant's ethical writings. New approach to Kant's moral philosophy. International renowned authorship.

Educational Leadership and Moral Literacy Patrick M. Jenlink, 2014-03-18 What makes a moral person moral? Who decides what morality means? What makes leadership practice moral? In today's schools, what stands as moral leadership? These are questions that reflect the complexity integral to the calculus of human morality, especially in a world that is defined daily by its variant meanings of morality, its acts of immorality. The school as an educational setting is or should be a decidedly moral center of the society; it is the natural intersect between the family and the multi-dimensional nature of public life. Educational Leadership and Moral Literacy addresses these questions, situating the reader in a conversation that examines the meaning and nature of moral leadership through the lens of moral literacy and the dispositional aims of moral leadership in educational settings. The contributing authors extend an argument that the work of leader-educators and practitioners alike must continuously be re-articulated around the dispositional aims aligned with a moral democratic education. Educators must be concerned with developing the moral, intellectual, and aesthetic dimensions of the educational leader as a moral person.

Restorative Justice and the Law L. Walgrave, 2012-12-06 Restorative justice has developed rapidly from being a barely known term to occupying a central role in debates on the future of criminal justice. But as it has become part of the mainstream of debate, so new tensions and issues have emerged. One of the most crucial issues is to find an appropriate combination of restorative justice based essentially on informal deliberation and the law. The purpose of this book is to analyse the several dimensions to this issue. It explores the social and ethical foundations of restorative justice, seeks to position it in relation to both rehabilitation and punishment, and examines the possibility of developing and incorporating restorative justice as the mainstream response to crime in terms of the principles of constitutional democracy. Amongst the questions it addresses are the following: How are informal processes to be juxtaposed with formal procedures? What is the appropriate relationship between voluntarism and coercion? How can the procedures and practices of restorative justice be combined with legal standards, safeguards, and precepts? How can one balance restorative responses with legally sanctioned punishment? In this book, a distinguished team of contributors consider this crucial set of relationships between restorative justice and the law, building upon papers and discussions at the fifth international restorative justice conference in Leuven, Belgium, in September 2001. Restorative justice has grown rapidly throughout the world; this book addresses the central issue of the relationship of restorative justice to existing law and legal
