Separate But Equal? Tony Edwards,Carol Fitz-Gibbon, Frank Hardman,Roy Haywood,Nick Meagher,2005-08-19 This book looks in detail at the strong contrasts in the provision traditionally made for academically and vocationally minded students and looks at differences and similarities in practice The chapters report evidence of how students on both sides think they have been taught They also report on how those students prefer to learn how their teachers define the kinds of learning appropriate for particular qualifications and how the organisation of learning for different but equal qualifications was observed in forty schools and colleges The book s main focus is on the objectives and processes of learning at a stage which is certainly being transformed but which is still powerfully shaped by myths about the sixth form and education of leaders

Cambridge International AS and A Level Business Studies Student's Coursebook Peter Stimpson,2002-09-05 The distinctive feature of this book is the international perspective it adopts on business Very few businesses today operate in a narrow national marketplace and students are therefore encouraged to look at business organisations and business decisions from an international viewpoint Essential material for understanding Business Studies principles and techniques Activities and case studies based on actual businesses Includes examination style questions
