A Jest Of God New Canadian Library:

A Jest of God Margaret Laurence, 1974 Rachel Cameron is a lonely schoolteacher trapped by a tyrannically demanding mother repressed and self conscious who has reached that crucial stage in her emotional life when she must either explode which she cannot afford to do or retreat into private fantasy In her thirty fourth summer however she finds release in a joyous but baffling affair through which her knowledge of herself as a woman capable of using the thwarted sexual energies of her nature provides her with the strength to free herself The setting is a dreary prairie town in Manitoba where suffocating social mores threaten the tenuous hold that an uncertain woman may have on reality As universal as its biblical precedent Rachel s story become in the author s hands as fresh and immediate as only the discovery of truth can be

The Diviners shares a number of narrative similarities with The Stone Angel but the latter's formal rigidity has yielded by the time Laurence writes her last novel to the concept of multiplicity characters time planes perspectives and narrative voices including metafictional commentaries Textual coherence is secured via narrative strategies including typography generational paradigms repetition parallelism intertextuality and tropological patterning that render the novel readable and present experience as ordered in a time of cultural flux and personal crisis Margaret Laurence Christl Verduyn,1988

Studies in Canadian Literature ,1978 Contemporary Literary Criticism Roger Matuz,1991-01-31 Entries include critical commentary brief biographical information a portrait when available a list of principal works and may also include a further reading section New Perspectives on Margaret Laurence Greta M. Coger,1996-05-30 Nearly all of Laurence's works from Africa and Canada are critiqued in this volume The essays highlight Laurence's innovative narrative styles showing how her combinations of oral literary forms and unique shifts in tense and point of view help her achieve vivid character portrayals In addition viewing Laurence's prose as closely textured poetry her use of language theme and image are carefully critiqued The importance of Laurence's portrayal of women's experiences most notably that of aging women is viewed in a feminist framework These new American perspectives on Laurence will be of interest to both scholars and students Canadiana ,1988-09 Journal of Canadian Studies ,1983
