Global Interests in the Arab Gulf Charles E. Davies, 1992 This book sets out to examine why the world regards the Gulf as important Chapters either treat the way in which individual countries view their vital interest in the Gulf or deal with specific themes such as the question of militarization and the international arms trade The book makes the point that different countries and continents are conscious of possessing a variety of practical interests in the region for some the Gulf represents a market for manufactured goods for some a field of expatriate labour for some a source of oil and for the Superpowers an area of conspicuous political and strategic importance This last topic closely linked as it now is with changes in Eastern Europe and the former USSR is analyzed at some length in this collection

Shaikhdoms of Eastern Arabia P. Lienhardt, 2001-03-20 This pioneering study captures the traditional social economic and political systems of the Arab sheikhdoms of the Gulf It represents a unique and in depth insight into the complex and varied cultural patterns of the Arabs Persians and the people of the East African Coast in the 1950s before the advent of oil wealth radically altered the style of life and expectations of the people living in these sheikhdoms In a compelling narrative Lienhardt discusses the tribal structure relations between men and women the economics of pearl fishing the growth of towns and the complex relationship between the ruling sheikhs and their subjects His findings offer a key to the understanding of the political system and the transition from the tribal to the class system Specialists on the Gulf and Middle East social historians and anthropologists will find a wealth of new evidence and analysis in this invaluable and accessible combination of history and anthropology

The Gulf Cooperation Council Erik Roswell Peterson, 1988

Media in Qatar Dr. Khalid Al-Jaber, Women at Work in the Gulf Munira Ahmed Fakhro, 1990 First published in 1990 This book grew out of a dissertation written during 1983 86 and is an analysis of the social policies needed to facilitate women s entry into the labour force Pushing the need and recognition that it is essential now for Gulf women to move beyond their domestic activities by taking an active role and by providing leadership to ensure that they have access to
