Caring In Crisis:

Caring in Crisis Gillian Dalley, 2022 This book examines a familiar and contemporary social policy issue the crisis besetting social care but differs from usual accounts by including additional perspectives philosophical ethical and political not often raised but nonetheless crucial to understanding the issue Its central argument is that while a health care divide dates back to legislative separation at the inception of the welfare state in the 1940s the major cause of the current crisis has been the slow but insidious ideological and practical splitting off and fracturing of social care from other state welfare institutions notably the NHS and its consequent entrapment in the treacherous straits of profit and loss self interest and individualism These issues and others the book argues contribute to the building of a strong case for bringing social care into the public sector Towards the end the book goes on to consider the impact from 2020 of the Covid 19 pandemic on a caring crisis that was already well established The consequences of this global shock are still working through and are likely to be profound Solutions as the book describes which were already being formulated prior to the arrival of the pandemic are even more salient now The book will therefore be of interest to students and researchers of social policy and public policy health and social care professionals and policymakers and users of social care themselves Gillian Dalley is a social anthropologist and has been an independent researcher for more than a decade completing most recently a project on the financial abuse of people lacking mental capacity for Brunel University London funded by the Dawes Trust She is the author of Ideologies of Caring Rethinking community and collectivism and in a long career has worked for several London based organisations including the King s Fund the Policy Studies Institute and the Centre for Policy on Ageing as well as working as a senior NHS quality manager and as a researcher at the former MRC Medical Sociology Unit in Aberdeen in the early 1980s

The Care Crisis Emma Dowling, 2021-01-26 An examination of the global economic crisis from the perspective of care Valuing care and care work does not simply mean attributing care work more monetary value To really achieve change we must go further In this groundbreaking book Emma Dowling charts the multi faceted nature of care in the modern world from the mantras of self care and what they tell us about our anxieties to the state of the social care system She examines the relations of power that play profitability and care off in against one another in a myriad of ways exposing the devastating impact of financialisation and austerity As the world becomes seemingly more uncaring the calls for people to be more compassionate and empathetic towards one another in short to care more become ever more vocal The Care Crisis challenges the idea that people ever stopped caring but also that the deep and multi faceted crises of our time will be solved by a simply re instilling the virtues of empathy There is no easy fix The Care Crisis enquires into the ways in which the continued off loading of the cost of care onto the shoulders of underpaid and unpaid realms of society untangling how this off loading combines with commodification marketisation and financialisation to produce the mess we are living in The Care Crisis charts the current experiments in short term fixes to the care crisis that are taking place within Britain with austerity as the backdrop It maps

the economy of abandonment raising the question to whom care is afforded And what would it mean to seriously value care

Solving the American Health Care Crisis Malhotra Umang Malhotra, Umang Malhotra, 2009-11 Surprisingly America ranks 54 worldwide in access to health care Solving the American Health Care Crisis lays open the issues challenges Americans to think for themselves and reveals how learning from other countries can help to create truly the best health care system in the world In the span of his career as an international businessman and entrepreneur Umang Malhotra has voyaged through nearly eighty countries and he shares his vast knowledge of health care in other nations In a commonsense book aimed at the public and policymakers alike he provides a fresh unbiased view of the flaws inherent in the American health care system while examining how other affluent nations manage to provide quality universal health care coverage for half the cost per person After the death of his best friend who did not have American health insurance when he fell ill while visiting the United States Malhotra wondered why the richest country in the world treats health care as a privilege rather than as a basic right unlike other industrialized nations He reveals how other countries approach health care while examining the critical economic social and political issues that America must resolve in the belief that we can only make progress when the average person understands fully the real issues behind the crisis The book presents compelling solutions for an affordable high quality and accessible universal system while answering key questions and asking some very pointed ones in return The reader is left well armed to think the issue through
