Globalizing Political Theory is guided by the need to understand political theory as deeply embedded in local networks of power identity and structure and to examine how these networks converge and diverge with the global. With the help of this book students of political theory no longer need to learn about ideas in a vacuum with little or no attention paid to how such ideas are responses to varying local political problems in different places times and contexts. Key features include Central Conceptual Framework Introducing readers to what it means to globalize political theory and to move beyond the traditional western canon and actively engage with a multiplicity of perspectives. Organization Focused on key topics essential for an introductory class aimed at both globalizing political theory and showing how political theory itself is a globalizing activity. Themes Colonialism and Empire Gender and Sexuality Religion and Secularism Marxism Socialism and Globalization Democracy and Protest and Race Ethnicity and Indigeneity Pedagogy. Each chapter features theoretical concepts and definitions political and historical context key authors and biographical context textual evidence and exegesis from the foundational texts in that thematic area a list of discussion questions and a list of resources for further reading. Claudia Jones Claudia Jones, Carole Boyce Davies, 2011. Claudia Jones was a smart politically wise brilliant transnational feminist Pan African theorist and cultural activist who initiated political ideas and strategies that are now seen as a necessary way of intersecting a variety of political fields and positions. Known as the founder of the first London carnival and the editor of the first black newspaper her activism bridged the black world politics of decolonisation and contemporary community empowerment. For the first time her essays poetry and writings are here brought together.

Beyond Containment Robert Warren Tucker, William Watts, 1974 Beyond Containment Gary Evans, 2000-10-01. An epidemic seemed imminent after several young athletes from Grand Forks North Dakota collapsed and died because a blood vessel burst inside them. The search for why the vessels weakened brings together a conservative and cantankerous pathologist a brilliant but promiscuous epidemiologist and a plucky female investigator from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. While the three professionals search for logical scientific answers a crusty old janitor tries to convince them he knows the reason why the young people died. The clash of professional egos a bribe physical threats and a suspicious suicide hinder the investigation but the pathologist doggedly interviews people and sifts through scientific information until he discovers the astonishing 20 year old incident that caused disease and death in this Midwestern community. Beyond
