Beyond Agriculture:

Beyond Agriculture, 2000 Beyond Agriculture, 2018 Beyond Agriculture Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, 2001-12-01 Rural America has always played a vital role in our country's economic strength. But today as we continue to enjoy our longest economic expansion ever we must acknowledge that not all of rural America has been able to take part in this unprecedented run of prosperity. It is becoming increasingly clear that many Main Streets across rural America must reset their sights. To prosper in the future they must acquire new skills, new strengths, and new connections with an emerging digital economy. Beyond Agriculture: New Policies for Rural America explores the challenges facing the rural economy and highlights the economic development issues that are becoming so crucial to the future of rural America. Multifunctional Agriculture Geoffrey Alan Wilson, 2007 In a time of great agricultural and rural change the notion of multifunctionality has remained under theorized and poorly linked to wider debates in the social sciences. This book analyses the extent to which the proposed transition towards post-productivist agriculture holds up to scientific scrutiny and proposes a modified productivist non-productivist model that better encapsulates the complexity of agricultural and rural change. By combining existing notions and concepts this book re-conceptualizes agricultural change creating a new transition theory and a new way of looking at the future of agriculture. Beyond the City David M. De Ferranti, 2005-01-01 The rural economy's contribution to development: summary of findings and policy implications. The rural contribution to development: analytical issues. The rural contribution to development: policy issues. Beyond the City Limits R.W. Sandwell, 2011-11-01 Historians have not usually identified British Columbia as a rural province. B.C. historiography has been dominated by mining, logging, and fishing and theorized within the context of large-scale laissez-faire capitalism and economic individualism. Silences in the historical record have exacerbated this situation and lent tacit support to the dominance of resource-based capitalism as the shaping force in B.C. history. The essays in Beyond the City Limits, all published here for the first time, decisively break this silence and challenge traditional readings of B.C. history. In this wide-ranging collection, R.W. Sandwell draws together a distinguished group of contributors who bring expertise, methodologies, and theoretical perspectives taken from social and political history, environmental studies, cultural geography, and anthropology. They discuss such diverse topics as Aboriginal-White settler relations on Vancouver Island, pimping and violence in northern BC, and the triumph of the codling moth over Okanagan orchardists to show that a narrow emphasis on resource extraction, capitalist labour relations, and urban society is simply not broad enough to adequately describe those who populated the province's history. By challenging the dominant urban-based and overwhelmingly capitalist interpretation of the province's history, the provocative essays in Beyond the City Limits expand our understanding of what rural was and what it meant in the history of British Columbia. Beyond Agriculture Tony Gleeson, Robert Douglas, Cate Turner, 2003 Beyond Human Maryanne L. Leone, Shanna Lino, 2023-10-02 Chronicling sixteenth-century Spain to the present day, Beyond Human aims to decentre the human and acknowledge the material historicity of more than human nature The book explores key questions relating to ecological equity justice and responsibility within and beyond Spain in the Anthropocene Examining relations between Iberian cultural practices historical developments and ecological processes Maryanne L Leone Shanna Lino and the contributors to this volume reveal the structures that uphold and dismantle the non human human dichotomy and nature culture divide The book critiques works from the Golden Age to the twenty first century in a wide range of genres including comedia royal treatises agricultural reports paintings satirical essays horror fiction and film young adult and speculative literature poetry graphic novels and television series The authors contend that Spanish cultural studies must expose the material historicity that entangles today s ecological crises and ecosocial injustices with previous future and contemporary entities The book argues that this will require the simultaneous decentring of the human and of the Anthropocene as an ecocritical framework By standardizing ecosocial analysis and widening avenues for ecopedagogical approaches Beyond Human participates in the ecocentric transformation of Hispanic cultural studies

Shopping in Ancient Rome Claire Holleran,2012-04-26 Shopping in Ancient Rome provides the first comprehensive account of the retail network of this ancient city an area of commerce that has been largely neglected in previous studies Given the remarkable concentration of consumers in ancient Rome the vast majority of which were entirely reliant on the market for survival a functioning retail trade was vital to the survival of Rome in the late Republic and the Principate In this volume Holleran provides the first systematic account of Rome s retail sector through a comprehensive analysis of the literary legal epigraphic and archaeological evidence together with wide ranging and innovative comparative studies of the distributive trades Investigating the diverse means by which goods were sold to consumers in the city and the critical relationship between retail and broader environmental factors Holleran places Roman retail trade firmly within the wider context of its urban economy In considering the roles played by shops workshops markets fairs auctions street sellers and ambulant vendors in the distribution of goods to the inhabitants of the city the volume sheds new light on the experience of living in the ancient city and explores the retail trade of Rome in its totality

Beyond Agriculture? Terry Marsden,M. R. Redclift,1999 Beyond the Green Revolution Edward C. Wolf,1986 After 20 years the green revolution is generally referred to as a milestone in the international agricultural movement The introduction of new varieties of wheat and rice along with fertilizers pesticides and mechanized farm equipment has produced a dramatic increase in world food production This paper assesses the successes of the green revolution in light of its effect upon third world countries It cautions that the revolutionary gains in agricultural production have not been distributed evenly This uneven distribution of productivity is discussed in the first chapter Productivity Reconsidered The second chapter Beyond the Green Revolution considers the need for new crop varieties and technologies including biotechnologies but argues that tomorrow s innovations must be more consistent with regional agricultural traditions This approach will help to avoid some of the environmental and social costs associated with the agricultural technologies utilized during the green revolution The third chapter Rediscovering Traditional Agriculture examines the benefits and limitations of traditional methods of agriculture indicating that these practices should provide the basis for new practices rather than be swept aside as archaic Toward Appropriate Biotechnology discusses some of the possible contributions offered by biotechnology as tools for more efficient and sustainable agriculture The document concludes with a call for additional research in sustainable agriculture productivity TW

economic development. Focusing on linkages beyond agriculture Veena Soni, 2020-06-19 Academic Paper from the year 2020 in the subject Economics Economic Cycle and Growth language English abstract Those of us who preach the gospel of agriculture with evangelical zeal find the text compelling and convincing We are regularly possessed by the spirit only to look around and see out colleagues in other sectors in country management or even our senior management doubting yawning or subtly edging towards the door We face the implicit query If agriculture can do such great things why have they not yet happened The past decade has been one of agro pessimism The promises that agricultural development seem to hold did not materialise This pessimism seemed to coincide with pessimism about Sub Saharan Africa Especially for Sub Saharan Africa the hope was that economic development would be brought about by agricultural development After the success of the green revolution in Asia the hope was that a similar agricultural miracle would transform African economies But this hope never materialised agricultural productivity did not increase much in SSA and worse the negative effects of the green revolution in Asia became more apparent such as pesticide overuse and subsequent pollution Also in Asia the yield increases tapered off The sceptics put forward several arguments why agriculture is no longer an engine of growth For instance the liberalisation of the 1990s and greater openness to trade has led to a reduction in the economic potential of the rural sector cheap imported Chinese plastic buckets out compete the locally produced pottery On the other hand it does mean cheaper imported supplies With rapid global technical change and increasingly integrated markets prices fall faster than yields rise So rural incomes fall despite increased productivity if they are net producers The integration of rural with urban areas means that healthy young people move out of agriculture head to town leaving behind the old the sick and the dependent It is often also the men who move to urban areas leaving women in charge of the farm This has resulted in the increased sophistication of agricultural markets and value chains which excludes traditional smallholders who are poorly equipped to meet the demanding product specifications and timeliness of delivery required by expanding supermarkets The natural resource base on which agriculture depends is poor and deteriorating
