Beyond Farmer First Rural Peoples Knowle:

Beyond Farmer First Ian Scoones,1994 The purpose of this book is to reveal how agricultural research and extension far from being discrete rational acts are in fact part of a process of coming to terms with conflicting interests and viewpoints By going beyond Farmer First this theoretically informed perspective describes agricultural development as what it is a highly ideological and political process As Robert Chambers notes in his foreword the concerns of Farmer First with performance and of Beyond Farmer First with process indicate that a radical rethinking of knowledge power and agricultural science is well under way Beyond Farmer First University of Sussex. Institute of Development Studies,1992

Agrarian Modernity and Development in India Shibsankar Jena,2023-11-21 The social science discourse on the power of modernity and its everyday negotiation with tradition and locality in India has been a matter of continuous debate and discussion among academicians since the colonial era By taking agriculture as a special field of investigation this book describes the condition of modernity in the agrarian social system of contemporary India Farming is not only an economic activity but also a personality formation where status plays a significant role in Indian society Taking culture and social status as the two important variables in the local agriculture as performance this book develops a sociology of knowledge approach towards agrarian modernity and development in postcolonial India Beyond the Biophysical Laura German,Joshua J. Ramisch,Ritu Verma,2010-06-10 Beyond the Biophysical provides a broad overview of agriculture and natural resource management NRM scholarship and practice that lies beyond the biophysical emphasizing instead epistemological cultural and political foundations of NRM The volume is oriented toward professionals with expertise in agriculture and natural resource management scholarship and practice but who lack exposure to the conceptual and methodological underpinnings of critical theory the anthropology of development ecological anthropology and other relevant scholarship It therefore follows common standards of academic rigour but minimizes the use of jargon integrates detailed case studies with conceptual syntheses and attempts to move from critique to concrete recommendations for scholarship and practice The volume seeks to foster a more nuanced and responsible engagement with local communities and the natural world among NRM scholars and practitioners Environment, Knowledge and Gender Sarah Jewitt,2019-07-31 This title was first published in 2002 Tracing global shifts in development thinking through to national level policy making in India and its local scale implications Sarah Jewitt investigates the practical value of radical populist and eco feminist alternatives to more mainstream forms of development Using detailed empirical data on forests and agriculture from two adivasi tribal villages in India she takes a micro political ecology approach to examine inter and intra community especially gender variations in environmental knowledge resource management strategies and development aspirations Critiquing the adoption of romanticized eco feminist discourse in policymaking Jewitt studies the Jharkhand region of Bihar India to determine women s contribution to environmental degradation and how the implementation of environmentally oriented development initiatives affects their daily lives She also examines the populist concern about the displacement of traditional agro ecological practices by modern techniques and illustrates the need to understand local people s socio cultural beliefs and aspirations as well as their technical knowledge when seeking to promote more appropriate development Feeding a World Population of More than Eight Billion People J. C. Waterlow, D. G. Armstrong, Leslie Fowden, Ralph Riley, 1998-07-16 Since the 1960s breakthroughs in agriculture have made it possible to satisfy the world s increasing requirements for food Can this trend continue over the next thirty years when the world population is projected to exceed eight billion This book takes a critical look at the immediate challenges for feeding the population just a generation from now Based on the 10th International Symposium sponsored by the Nutrition Committee and the Trustees of the Rank Prize Funds the volume examines the full range of related issues from food economics to resource allocation and crop yields Beginning with an analysis of future food needs the articles cover basic resources and constraints applications of science to increase yield the role of animal products in feeding eight billion people and diverse social issues The book provides insights into some of the most important questions we will be faced with in the coming years making it an invaluable resource for a wide range of researchers in agriculture the environment and public policy Informal Farmer Experimentation in Resource-poor Environments Terry Wayne Tucker, 1998 Indigenous Knowledge & Development Monitor ,1993 Learning in Development Co-operation Jerker Carlsson, Lennart Wohlgemuth, 2000 Innocent Farmers? M. Put, 1998 This study contributes to the discussion on the effect of government versus NGO activities and is one of the first to compare different intervention strategies Farmers cultivating the less endowed dryland not irrigated areas in India s risk prone semi arid tropics are confronted with the whims of nature like the unreliable monsoon and infertile soils Most of them are resource poor owning small plots of land and having limited access to water for irrigation and capital and cultivate low yielding crops Hence most farming households are not self sufficient The expectation that they would benefit from Green Revolution innovations hardly materialized In fact having neglected dryland agriculture in its semi arid tropics for decades the Indian government implemented special projects to ameliorate the plight of these farmers only in the 1980s In addition various Non Governmental Organizations NGOs did the same The present study compares the effects of two such projects the World Bank financed Maheswaram watershed project implemented by the Andhra Pradesh government and a project implemented by a well known NGO in that State AWARE Essential reading for the aid community economists agricultural planners and anyone concerned with the future of Indian farmers Soil and Water Conservation ,1998 Conference held in New Delhi on Dec 4 8 1994 and organized by the Indian Association of Soil and Water Conservationists Proceedings of the 6th International Conference on Thai Studies: Theme 2, Cultural crisis and the Thai capitalist transformation ,1996 Agriculture and Human Values ,2003 Proceedings of the 2nd ISHS Conference on Fruit Production in the Tropics and Subtropics ,2000 Cropping Systems, Land Tenure and Social Diversity in Wenchi, Ghana Samuel Adjei-Nsiah, 2006

However there is still considerable scope for further development of these self organised innovations Changing Agricultural Opportunities ,1998 Coalitions of Interest Ruth Alsop,2000-05 This book documents a technique called process monitoring PM which is designed to bring about sustainable agricultural change in the semi arid areas of India PM is a dynamic process characterised by interaction and collaboration between different stakeholders including various levels of government NGOs and farmers groups Examining PM in the context of the state of Rajasthan this book is firmly rooted in practice However it also extends to applied policy by exposing the complexity of working with multiple actors This is an essential tool for programme designers who might be struggling to assist diverse agents to articulate and act upon a common interest Tanzanian Journal of Population Studies and Development ,1999 Indigenous Knowledge Inquiries Paul Sillitoe,Peter J. Dixon,Peter Dixon,Julian Barr,2005 This is a manual for development programme managers and project leaders who wish to incorporate an indigenous knowledge element into their work It offers a continuous spectrum of approaches and tools from those useful to persons seeking a quick IK component to those interested in a long term investigations Farmers' Research in Practice Laurens van Veldhuizen,1997 This book examines farmers innovation through 17 wide ranging case studies from around the world It concludes by revisiting the major themes in relation to the lessons learned and sets out the future issues and challenges for governmental and non governmental organizations involved in agricultural development
