Beyond Poverty And Affluence:

Beyond Poverty and Affluence B. Goudzwaard, Harry De Lange, H. M. de Lange, 1995-01-01 Beyond Poverty and Affluence argues that like a virus which has developed an immunity to the cure the problems of poverty environmental degeneration and unemployment today successfully resist the remedy of growth in industrial production Bob Goudzwaard and Harry de Lange demonstrate that over the last several decades the solutions used by industrialized nations either have not helped or have dramatically exacerbated these problems Instead these predicaments have become structural features of today's economic practice The authors formulate an alternative which they call the economics of care and propose a twelve step program for economic recovery in Canada Goudzwaard and de Lange contend that poverty environmental damage and unemployment have a common origin they emerge from structural flaws in classical and contemporary neoclassical economic thought including that of Adam Smith and Karl Marx Drawing on thinkers as diverse as René Girard and Hannah Arendt on numerous Canadian sources and on their own Christian tradition the authors propose a pre care economy which places care needs first on its list of priorities and only then addresses the scope of production rather than a post care economy which pursues maximum consumption and production above all else They also describe in detail structural changes the Canadian economy will need to undergo to become an economy of pre care Included in their discussion is an assessment of the progress of sustainable development in Canada including the work of the federal and provincial roundtables on environment and economy and a proposed framework for setting Canadian government finances on a durable foundation The twelve economic proposals the authors put forward deal with such issues as international currency creation the environment the foundation of labour management relations the funding of social programs wage and salary development the scope of production and technological development the structure of economic decision making the direction of government funding and the dropping of trade barriers in North America and Europe

The Inclusive Economy: Criteria, Principles and Ubuntu Arno J van Niekerk, 2022-08-12 There is one serious missing link at the center of today's capitalism. It is a disequilibrium between increased economic interconnectedness and increased isolation/exclusion. This unique challenge in the 21st century calls for a unique solution: Ubuntu. Africa might be the last place where experts would look for an economic solution, but it ironically holds the secret to restoring the right equilibrium in the economy. Ubuntu's ability to reconnect the marginalised with the mainstream by putting emphasis on our humanness, connectedness, collective growth through expansion and improved efficiency creates new capacity for the economy to rebalance itself towards genuine and sustainable progress. Ubuntu encapsulates that which is the opposite of economic exclusion, i.e. inequality, poverty, unsustainable growth, limited profits, etc., namely economic inclusion. However, only a small window of opportunity exists in and after the COVID-19 pandemic to implement Ubuntu as a fundamental economic principle in order for it to be an effective remedy. The global economy and most local economies have entered the phase of rebuilding with a serious drawback after the previous global financial crisis: both the economy and government's capacity to recover are severely limited as unemployment levels, debt levels, and natural resource depletion levels keep soaring, resulting in dangerous levels of economic exclusion and social instability. To this and more, the inclusive economy presents tangible solutions.

Beyond Gender Binaries Cindy L. Griffin, 2020-10-13 Beyond Gender Binaries uses a feminist, intersectional, and invitational approach to understanding identities and how they relate to communication. Taking readers outside the familiar binary constructions of gender and identity, Cindy L. Griffin addresses, through a feminist intersectional lens, communication, identity, power, and privilege, personhood, and citizenship, safety in public and private spaces, and hegemony and colonialism. Twelve chapters focus on critical learning through careful exploration of key terms and concepts. Griffin illustrates these with historical and contemporary examples and provides concrete guides to intersectional approaches to communication. This textbook highlights not just the ways individuals, systems, structures, and institutions use communication to privilege particular identities discursively and materially, but also the myriad ways that communication can be used to disrupt privilege and respectfully acknowledge the nonbinary and intersectional nature of every person's identity. Key features include: Intersectional approaches to explaining and understanding identities and communication are the foundation of each chapter and inform the presentation of information throughout the book. Contemporary and historical examples are included in every chapter, highlighting the intersectional nature of identity and the role of communication in our interactions with other people. Complex and challenging ideas are presented in clear, respectful, and accessible ways throughout the book.

Seeing Children, Seeing God Pamela D. Couture, 2000 In Seeing Children, Seeing God, Pamela Couture explores the actual and potential relation of the church and the theological school to economically and socially relationally poor children. She argues that the solution to the problem of child poverty requires the shared responsibility of individuals, families, neighborhoods congregations governments businesses and international organizations because children develop within these multiple systems With their unique access to these multiple systems churches and theological schools are in a wonderful position to transform the social ecology within which children develop and to assist in children s flourishing Concretely what would it mean for the caring ministries of the church and those who teach and learn about them in seminary to make the issue of children and poverty central to what we do How would this change the way we live Pamela Couture argues from a Wesleyan perspective that caring for poor children is a means of grace a grace that deepens our experience as the adopted children of God She draws explicitly on recent writings that have updated the Wesleyan theological tradition Seeing Children Seeing God will be of particular interest to everyone who is concerned about children and poverty especially from a Wesleyan perspective Key Features Brief and accessible Offers a constructive theologically sound response to the problem of children and poverty Recognizes and shares responsibility for solutions across society but especially with the church and the seminary Key Benefits Readers will understand the dynamics and extent of the problem of children living in poverty today Readers will understand ways in which theology has undergirded efforts to deal with this problem in the past Readers will understand and identify with the specifically Christian imperative to respond to this problem Readers will understand how various groups can contribute to a concerted effort to deal with the problem Readers will understand how the church has failed to deal with this problem in the past
