Children's Creative Music-Making with Reflexive Interactive Technology Victoria Rowe,Angeliki Triantafyllaki,Francois

Pachet, 2016-10-14 Children's Creative Music Making with Reflexive Interactive Technology discusses pioneering experiments conducted with young children using a new generation of music software for improvising and composing. Using artificial intelligence techniques, this software captures the children's musical style and interactively reflects it in its responses. The book describes the potential of these applications to enhance children's agency and musical identity by reflecting players' musical inputs, storing and creating variations on them. Set in the broader context of current music education research, it addresses the benefits and challenges of incorporating music technologies in primary and pre-school education. It is comprised of six main chapters which cover the creation of children's own music and their musical selves, critical thinking skills and learner agency, musical language development and emotional intent during creative music making. The authors provide a range of straight-forward techniques and strategies which challenge conceptions of difficult-to-use music technologies in formal music education. These are supported by an informative collection of practitioner vignettes written by teachers who have used the software in their classrooms. Not only are the teachers' voices heard here, but also those of children as they discover some of the creative possibilities of music making. The book also provides free access to a companion website with teacher forums and a large bank of activities to explore. A toolkit serves as a database of the teaching activities in which MIRROR applications have been used and provides a set of useful ideas regarding its future use in a variety of settings. This book demonstrates that music applications based on artificial intelligence techniques can make an important contribution to music education within primary and pre-school education. It will be of key interest to academics, researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of music education, music technology, early years and primary education, teaching and learning, and teacher education. It will also serve as an important point of reference for Early Years and Primary practitioners.

Culture, Creativity, and Music Education in China Wai-Chung Ho, 2023-04-07. Ho's book explores music education in China and how creativity education reforms and social transformation can be enabled through music. The essential elements of music discussed include perception and creativity sources and stimulation and the integration of musical creativity in diverse cultures and participation. It focuses on three Chinese cities: Changsha and Hong Kong Special Administrative Region of China, which have creative industries, and Shijiazhuang, which has cultural industries. Readers will gain insights into the introduction of creativity into the Chinese education system through music, particularly during the pandemic. The author analyses official documents, selected music textbooks, adopted by schools, questionnaire surveys, and in-depth interviews with both students and teachers. These interviews reveal the underbelly of the dilemmas of introducing creativity into schools through music education. The volume will be of interest to those keen to increase creativity in teaching through music and researchers in the fields of creativity and music education. It will also interest students undertaking Chinese teacher education or music.

Contextualized Practices in Arts Education Chee-Hoo Lum, 2013-12-28. This edited book not only makes a much-needed contribution to research in arts education but also provides a strong grounding of evidential support for Singapore arts education in contrast to the current state of affairs in arts education in many parts of the world where severe cuts in funding lackluster support for the arts and imperialist agendas are pervasive The case of and for Singapore presented in this edited book through rich descriptions of the dedicated contextualized practices of arts educators artists and researchers offers readers many valuable lessons and reflections on the continued survival and advancement of arts education
