Creativity And Constraint In The British Film Industry:

Creativity And Constraint In The British Film Industry Duncan J Petrie,1991-08-09 Creativity and Constraint A. Watts,2023 Channel 4 and the British Film Industry, 1982-1998 Laura Mayne,2024-04-30 This monograph offers the first ever comprehensive study of Channel 4 s film production distribution and broadcasting activities and represents a significant contribution to British cinema and television history The importance of Channel 4 to the British film industry over the last 40 years cannot be overstated The birth of the Channel in 1982 heralded a convergence between the UK film and television sectors which was particularly notable given that the two industries had historically been at loggerheads In addition to its role as a broadcaster and curator of feature film programming since its inception Channel 4 has funded or co funded hundreds of feature films through its film commissioning arm Film4 The Channel s commitment to financing between 15 20 films per year helped form the backbone of the ailing film sector throughout the 1980s and early 1990s while Film4 funding has also been instrumental to the success of many companies which have become vital to the British film industry A Companion to British and Irish Cinema John Hill,2019-05-07 A stimulating overview of the intellectual arguments and critical debates involved in the study of British and Irish cinemas British and Irish film studies have expanded in scope and depth in recent years prompting a growing number of critical debates on how these cinemas are analysed contextualized and understood A Companion to British and Irish Cinema addresses arguments surrounding film historiography methods of textual analysis critical judgments and the social and economic contexts that are central to the study of these cinemas Twenty nine essays from many of the most prominent writers in the field examine how British and Irish cinema have been discussed the concepts and methods used to interpret and understand British and Irish films and the defining issues and debates at the heart of British and Irish cinema studies Offering a broad scope of commentary the Companion explores historical cultural and aesthetic questions that encompass over a century of British and Irish film studies from the early years of the silent era to the present day Divided into five sections the Companion discusses the social and cultural forces shaping British and Irish cinema during different periods the contexts in which films are produced distributed and exhibited the genres and styles that have been adopted by British and Irish films issues of representation and identity and debates on concepts of national cinema at a time when ideas of what constitutes both British and Irish cinema are under question A Companion to British and Irish Cinema is a valuable and timely resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students of film media and cultural studies and for those seeking contemporary commentary on the cinemas of Britain and Ireland

Creativity and Cultural Production P. McIntyre,2011-11-22 Phillip McIntyre presents the latest scholarly research into creativity and creative practice The book provides insights to media practitioners and policy professionals looking at television radio film journalism photography popular music and new media in relation to psychology sociology and cultural studies Screen Production Research Craig Batty,Susan Kerrigan,2017-12-19 Aimed at students and educators across all levels of Higher Education this agenda setting book defines what screen production research is and looks like and by doing so celebrates creative practice as an important pursuit in the contemporary academic landscape Drawing on the work of international experts as well as case studies from a range of forms and genres including screenwriting fiction filmmaking documentary production and mobile media practice the book is an essential guide for those interested in the rich relationship between theory and practice It provides theories models tools and best practice examples that students and researchers can follow and expand upon in their own screen production projects From Film Practice to Data Process Sarah

Atkinson,2017-12-20 Examines the practices of independent digital feature filmmaking in contemporary Britain To what extent have digital innovations transformed the UK film industry What new practices and processes are emerging within the contemporary UK filmmaking landscape What impact is this having upon filmmaking professionals The business of conventional feature filmmaking is like no other in that it assembles a huge company of people from a range of disciplines on a temporary basis all to engage in the collaborative endeavour of producing a unique one off piece of work By focusing on the pivotal year of 2012 and by considering the input of every single contributor to the process this book illuminates how this period of analogue to digital transition is impacting upon working practices cultures opportunities and structures in the industry and examines the various causative forces behind their adoptions and resistances With an in depth case study of Sally Potter s 2012 film Ginger Rosa and drawing upon interviews with international film industry practitioners From Film Practice to Data Process is a groundbreaking examination of film production in its totality in a moment of profound change

The British Cinema Source Book British Film Institute,1995 An up to date record of all British films held in the National Archive along with details of scripts press books and other publications available Canadian Journal of Film Studies ,1992

Journal for the Study of British Cultures ,1998 British Cinema in the 1980's W. John Hill,1999 In recent years the role and identity of British cinema has been changing and it is these changes with which British Cinema in the 1980s is concerned It looks at the increasing domination of the world film industry by Hollywood and the response of British filmmaking to this the role of government and the increasingly close relationship between film and television It also examines the kinds of images British cinema produced in this period and how they relate to a shifting sense of British identity The book not only looks at the appeal of images of the past in the heritage film such as Howards End and films of Empire such as A Passage to India but also discusses the more questioning images of the present by the state of the nation film such as Letter to Brezhnev and My Beautiful Laundrette In doing so it explores how these films deal with issues of class gender and ethnicity and how these in turn connect to our understanding of the Britishness of British cinema British Cinema in the 1980s will become the definitive study of an important period of British filmmaking Bringing together a discussion of British society the British film industry and British films John Hill provides an accessible analysis of the main themes and issues characterizing British cinema of the time The Art and Politics of Film John Orr,2000 The Art and Politics of Film is the final part of a critical trilogy that explores cinema in the latter half of the twentieth century It fuses analysis of objective form in Cinema and Modernity with a subsequent critique of subjective form in Contemporary Cinema and reassesses the close ties of the aesthetic and the political right up to the present time Film not only engages the question of power Its narratives also dissect the conflicts between public and personal identity in a changing world Different filmmakers take on different dimensions of this universal theme The book examines the cinematic city in Kieslowski and Cronenberg the cinema of wonder in Tarkovsky and Angelopoulos the hyper modern world of science fiction and horror the time image in Resnais Rivette Lynch and Stone and the art of identity in Jarman and Jordan At the turn of the century film is seen as a component of a hyper modern culture which has displaced the modernist aesthetic of the 1960s and now plays a key role in our mapping of the information age Features Offers a theory of film as an art form framed by social and political change Provides a critical assessment of the crisis of modernism and the role of the information age in the rise of hyper modern film Offers new insights into the rise and fall of the Cold War upon Hollywood genres and upon Eastern European cinema Illuminates transformations of time identity and sexuality in film narrative Examines the interlocking roles of speed space and paranoia in the renewal of the cinematic city

The Cumulative Book Index, 1992 A world list of books in the English language International Dictionary of Films and Filmmakers: Directors Nicholas Thomas, James Vinson, Samantha Cook, 1990 Each entry contains information lists of cast and crew a select bibliography and an essay by a specialist in the field Many include a still shot A History of Film Jack C. Ellis, 1995 An international survey of the narrative fiction film from its beginnings to the present day This work includes contributions of major film producing countries significant film makers and their films set within social artistic economic and technological contexts

Transformation and Tradition in 1960s British Cinema Richard Farmer, 2019-05-03 Making substantial use of new and underexplored archive resources that provide a wealth of information and insight on the period in question this book offers a fresh perspective on the major resurgence of creativity and international appeal experienced by British cinema in the 1960s The Economist, 1994 International Index to Film Periodicals, 1995

Censorship and the Permissive Society Anthony Aldgate, 1995 Stage or film presentations of Look Back in Anger A Taste of Honey Saturday Night and Sunday Morning Alfie and Darling were much changed even transformed by censorship between 1955 1965 Censorship and the Permissive Society explores the predicament writers and directors faced and highlights the debate over the liberalizing or progressive aspects of the sea changes affecting British society at the time A key decade in the postwar social and cultural history of Britain the period saw the country emerge from the doldrums era of the fifties to the permissive society of the swinging sixties A noticeable move towards decensorship increasingly loosened the traditional constraints imposed on literature stage and films Anthony Aldgate shows however that censorship altered the progression of the artistic and creative renaissance of this period and how the process brought changes in the works of writers such as John Osborne Shelagh Delaney Alan Sillitoe John Braine Frederic Raphael and Keith Waterhouse and directors such as Tony Richardson Lindsay Anderson John Schlesinger and Lewis Gilbert Drawing upon a mass of recently released or hitherto unseen documentation including records files and photographs from the British Board of Film Censors and the Lord Chamberlain's Office Anthony Aldgate charts the impact of the censorship process between 1955 and 1965 upon playwrights and directors many of whom endured the rigorous sometimes rancorous though often also fruitful scrutiny of the film and theatre censors
