Crimes of Passion Since Shakespeare Adrian Howe,2023-04-28 Bringing key Shakespeare texts into dialogue with feminist socio legal research this book investigates the notion of a crime of passion indicatively wife killing Its key concern is to bring attention to a cultural and legal revolution widely overlooked even in the law field where it occurred In 2009 the English Parliament passed a controversial law abolishing the defence of provocation Explaining the new law reformers said that this so called heat of passion defence had allowed men to get away with murder by blaming the victim Abolishing it in cases of alleged infidelity would end the culture of excuses Unpacking what was at stake in the reformers revolutionary challenge to the English law of murder s age old concession to human frailty in red mist rage cases this book charts passion s progress in wife killing cases over the centuries It commences in the early modern era when jurists were busy distinguishing murder from manslaughter and contemporaneously Shakespeare set about querying culturally inscribed excuses for femicide in his plays Titus Andronicus and Othello This book will appeal to feminist and socio legal scholars criminologists and those working in the fields of law and literature legal theory and Shakespeare studies More widely it will appeal to anyone interested in so called crimes of passion

Reframing femicide in the quest for the socialisation of norms* Stef Monaco,2017-06-12 Seminar paper from the year 2016 in the subject Politics Topic Public International Law and Human Rights grade A University of London School of Advanced Study Institute of Commonwealth Studies course Securing Human Rights language English abstract Ni Una Menos in Argentina as a human rights campaign is unique in that it came into being organically on social media It grew out of the coordinated efforts of journalists intellectuals and activists it defined a narrow focus and specific calls to action but it has not developed an institutional structure in spite of having spilled over to other countries in the region and continuing to have a high media and political profile This essay considers Ni Una Menos within the framework developed by Keck and Sikkink in their 1999 UNESCO article Transnational Advocacy Networks in international and regional politics Ni Una Menos has sparked sister movements in several countries in the region but there is no evidence that a transnational advocacy network as defined by Keck and Sikkink 1999 89 is forming as of the time of writing Consequently this campaign does not seem to comfortably fit the authors definition of an advocacy network However this framework is useful for bringing intellectual order to what may look like a series spontaneous interventions around an issue by providing analytical tools to understand Ni Una Menos break from traditional framing strategies of human rights issues in Argentina and allowing the systematic exploration of the campaign s tactics and its policy outcomes in the Macri presidency The Christian Advocate ,1900 A Week of Passion, Or, The Dilemma of Mr George Barton the Younger John Edward Jenkins,1884
