Crime In Europe:

Crime in Europe Horst Entorf, Hannes Spengler, 2002-03-06 The generous social welfare system in Europe is one of the most important differences between Europe and the US Defenders of the European welfare state argue that it improves social cohesion and prevents crime Others argue that the invisible hand in the US economy is equally powerful in reducing unemployment and preventing crime This book takes this trade off as a starting point and contributes to a better interdisciplinary understanding of the interactions between crime economic performance and social exclusion In doing so it evaluates the existing economic and criminological research and provides innovative empirical investigations on the basis of international panel data sets from different levels of regional aggregation

Environmental Crime in Europe Andrew Farmer, Michael Faure, Grazia Maria Vagliasindi, 2017-12-14 Environmental crime is a growing challenge for policy makers and law enforcers This is an important and timely study which examines in depth how environmental crime is treated at national level within the European Union and the impact of the 2008 EU Directive on environmental crime on national systems It will be required reading by anyone concerned with making environmental law more effective Richard Macrory Emeritus Professor University College London The aim of this important new collection is to explore how environmental crime is controlled and environmental criminal law is shaped and implemented within the European Union and its Member States It examines the legal framework looking in particular at Directive 2008 99 EC and the specific competences of the EU in this domain In addition it provides a detailed analysis of environmental criminal law in seven Member States focusing inter alia on the basic legislation the way in which environmental pollution is criminalised and the main actors in place to enforce environmental criminal law In so doing it provides a much needed explanation of the evolution of environmental criminal law in Europe at Union level and how this is implemented in selected Member States
