American Poetic Voice in the Era of Global Broadcast Allison R.

Neal,2026 American Poetic Voice in the Era of Global Broadcast Mass Vernacular examines American poetic voice at a moment when technology was changing the sound of language itself Situating the poetry of Marianne Moore W H Auden Frank O Hara and Adrienne Rich in a broad institutional and technological soundscape it reveals how poetry intersects with both specific sound technologies like the phonograph the radio the telephone and the tape recorder and a variety of vocal practices and institutions including elocution instruction live poetry readings and radio based forms of cultural diplomacy Routing their poetry through modern circuits of communication it argues that twentieth century poets created a paradoxically intimate and global mass vernacular as they envisioned lyric voices circulating in ways similar to other official and mass voices In this context the formal poetic elements that we often associate with the lyric not just voice but also tone address apostrophe and prosopopeia in fact reveal a complex history of American cultural consolidation and global distribution Ultimately the book restores the sound of American poetic voice to its larger acoustical range enmeshed in the range of social institutions that simultaneously came to underwrite the nation s global power more generally Provided by publisher
