Colloquial Jakartan Indonesian James N. Sneddon,2006 This book aims to describe aspects of the Indonesian language as spoken by educated Jakartans in everyday interactions This style of language is in many ways significantly different from the formal language of government and education to the extent that it deserves separate consideration While formal Indonesian has been the subject of a considerable amount of description very little attention has been paid to informal styles of the language The variety described here Colloquial Jakartan Indonesian is the prestige variety of colloquial Indonesian and is becoming the standard informal style The description and texts in following chapters are drawn from recordings of natural speech of educated people living in Jakarta While the book aims to inform those with a background in linguistics the needs of teachers and learners with little or no knowledge of linguistics is always borne in mind The work thus does not consider theoretical linguistic issues nor use technical terms which would not be readily understood by most readers

Indonesian Idioms and Expressions Christopher Torchia,Lely Djuhari,2007-07-15 Indonesian Idioms and Expressions is a collection of Indonesian expressions including proverbs slang quotations and acronyms that offers a commentary on their origins as well as insights into Indonesian culture customs and history The book is an informal compendium designed to be both educational and easy to read There are four parts in the book and the chapters hit on various linguistic themes among them wisdom characters animals food slang family affairs and politics Entries include the expression in Bahasa Indonesia a translation an equivalent expression in English and an explanation if necessary The idea is to learn about Indonesian through the texture and content of its language rather than the headlines often bad ones that tend to dominate perceptions of the vast country

Usage-based and Typological Approaches to Linguistic Units Tsuyoshi Ono,Ritva Laury,Ryoko Suzuki,2021-04-15 The chapters in this volume focus on how we might understand the concept of unit in human languages It is an analytical notion that has been widely adopted by linguists of various theoretical and applied orientations but has recently been critically examined by both typologically oriented and interactional linguistics This volume contributes to and extends this discussion by examining the nature of units in actual usage in a range of genetically and typologically unrelated languages English Finnish Indonesian Japanese and Mandarin engaging with fundamental theoretical issues The chapters show that categories originally created for the description of Indo European languages have limited usefulness if our goal is to understand the nature of human language in general The authors thus question the status of traditionally accepted linguistic units especially their static understanding as a priori entities and suggest instead that an emergent and interactional view of both structure and function offers a better fit with the data from the languages examined Originally published as special issue 43 2 2019 of Studies in Language Indonesian Survival Tony Lapsley,2000-01-01 This mini course in colloquial Indonesian features basic vocabulary on a variety of practical topics introductions food and drink accommodations money communications transportation key words and questions The reference cards that accompany the course help reinforce newly acquired vocabulary Stancetaking in Discourse Robert Englebretson,2007-10-25 This volume contributes to the burgeoning field of research on stance by offering a variety of studies based in natural discourse These collected papers explore the situated pragmatic and interactional character of stancetaking and present new models and conceptions of stance to spark future research Central to the volume is the claim that stancetaking encompasses five general principles it involves physical attitudinal and or moral positioning it is a public action it is inherently dialogic interactional and sequential it indexes broader sociocultural contexts and it is consequential to the interactants Each paper explores one or more of these dimensions of stance from perspectives including interactional linguistics and conversation analysis corpus linguistics language description discourse analysis and sociocultural linguistics Research languages include conversational American English colloquial Indonesian and Finnish The understanding of stance that emerges is heterogeneous and variegated and always intertwined with the pragmatic and social aspects of human conduct New Beginnings in Literary Studies Willie van Peer,2021-02-03 Traditional studies of literature have developed approaches ranging from historical hermeneutic critical close reading and author studies perspectives The present volume shows that there is much much more to analysing literary texts their readers the literary system movies their structure and their effects These diverse new ways of looking at literature are exemplified in this volume The volume shows how these various approaches can be carried out in concrete projects in the area of literary studies Twenty three chapters encompass research on literary studies from perspectives of psychology linguistics anthropology history sociology computer science The contributors demonstrate in non technical language the amplitude of detail and insight that can be gained from such a wider perspective on the study of literary texts The interdisciplinary diversity of the study of literature may launch itself as a New Beginnings in Literary Studies indeed The Austronesian Languages of Asia and Madagascar K. Introduction to Indonesian Linguistics Renward Brandstetter, 1916 Area Handbook on Indonesia Yale University. Southeast Asia Studies, 1956 Pacific Linguistics, 1987 Searching for Structure Robert Englebretson, 2003-01-01 This book argues against the existence of complementation in colloquial Indonesian and discusses the ramifications of these findings for a discourse functional understanding of grammatical categories and linguistic structure. Based on a close analysis of a corpus of spontaneous conversational Indonesian data, the author examines four construction types which express what is often encoded by complements in other languages: juxtaposed clauses, material introduced by the discourse marker bahwa, serial verbs, and epistemic expressions with the suffix nya. These four construction types offer no evidence to support complementation as a viable grammatical category in colloquial spoken Indonesian. Rather, they are best understood as emergent discourse level phenomena arising from the interactive and communicative goals of language users. The lack of evidence for complementation in colloquial Indonesian reaffirms the need to understand linguistic structure as language particular and diverse, and emphasizes the centrality of studying linguistic categories based on their actual occurrence in natural discourse.
