Alternatives to Regulation for Managing Risks to Health, Safety and Environment Michael S. Baram, 1980 Risk Evaluation and Management V.T. Covello, Joshua Menkes, J.L. Mumpower, 2012-12-06 Public attention has focused in recent years on an array of technological risks to health safety and the environment At the same time responsibilities for technological risk as assessment evaluation and management have grown in both the public and private sectors because of a perceived need to anticipate prevent or reduce the risks inherent in modern society In attempting to meet these responsibilities legislative judicial regulatory and private sector institutions have had to deal with the extraordinarily complex problems of assessing and balancing risks costs and benefits The need to help society cope with technological risks has given rise to a new intellectual endeavor the social and behavioral study of issues in risk evaluation and risk management The scope and complexity of these analyses require a high degree of cooperative effort on the part of specialists from many fields Analyzing social and behavioral issues requires the efforts of political scientists sociologists decision analysts management scientists economists psychologists philosophers and policy analysts among others Lead-Based Paint Poisoning
