An Irish Childhood:

An Irish Childhood Peter Somerville-Large,2003 Peter Somerville Large grew up with his brother Phil in a nursery world at the top of a smart house in Dublin from which they could watch Fitzwilliam Place far below with the horse drawn delivery vans the animals being driven to market and their father s patients arriving to visit the consulting rooms on the ground floor The family had houses in the country too with livestock and vegetable gardens and a bevy of eccentric relations among them Edith Somerville of Somerville and Ross fame When Peter was five his father bought an island 80 bare rocky acres on the north shore of the Kenmare River in County Kerry which he saw as paradise There were parties sailing trips and fishing expeditions This biography takes the reader back to the sensations and excitements of children and paints a picture of a world at once so recent and yet now vanished

An Irish Country Childhood Marie Walsh,2010-03-01 As a child I would sit on the stone wall as if hypnotised imagining that the world ended where the mountains and the sky met and wishing I could stand at the top and touch the heavens This enchanting story tells of a young girl s magical childhood on a farm in the west of Ireland during the 1930s and 1940s It looks at the mountain village community one that was poor though never short of the necessities of life

An Irish Childhood Alexander Norman Jeffares,Antony Kamm,1987 A 1950s Irish Childhood Ruth Illingworth,2018-08-08 1950s Ireland was the age of De Valera and John Charles McQuaid It was the age before television Vatican II and home central heating A time when motor cars and public telephones had wind up handles when boys wore short trousers and girls wore ribbons when nuns wore white bonnets and priests wore black hats in church To the young people of today the 1950s seem like another age But for those who played learned and worked at this time this era feels like just yesterday This delightful collection of memories will appeal to all who grew up in 1950s Ireland and will jog memories about all aspects of life as it was

So Long to Wait Moira Verschoyle,1960 An Irish Childhood Alexander Norman Jeffares,Antony Kamm,1988 Sunshine and Shadows Rosa Edwards,2001 An Irish Childhood Mary McCann,2018-03 Mary McCann was born in Northern Ireland in the 1920 s the third child in a large poor rural Irish family Her journey was hard often disappointing and above all challenging As a young woman she moved to North London married and later moved to Bournemouth She died in 2006 This is her story

An Irish Childhood Elizabeth Hamilton,1963 An Irish Childhood ... Illustrated by Norah McGuinness Muriel Elizabeth Mollie HAMILTON,1963 Irish Children's Literature and Culture Keith O'Sullivan,Valerie Coghlan,2011-03-17 Irish Children s Literature and Culture looks critically at Irish writing for children from the 1980s to the present examining the work of many writers and illustrators and engaging with major genres forms and issues including the gothic the speculative picturebooks ethnicity and globalization It contextualizes modern Irish children s literature in relation to Irish mythology and earlier writings as well as in relation to Irish writing for adults thereby demonstrating the complexity of this fascinating area What constitutes a national literature is rarely straightforward and it is especially complex when discussing writing for young people in an Irish context Until recently there was only a slight body of work that could be classified as Irish children's literature in comparison with Ireland's contribution to adult literature in the twentieth century. The contributors to the volume examine a range of texts in relation to contemporary literary and cultural theory and children's literature internationally, raising provocative questions about the future of the topic.

Irish Children's Literature and Culture is essential reading for those interested in Irish literature, culture, sociology, childhood, and children's literature.

Valerie Coghlan, Church of Ireland College of Education, Dublin, is a librarian and lecturer. She is a former co-editor of Bookbird: An International Journal of Children's Literature. She has published widely on Irish children's literature and co-edited several books on the topic. She is a former board member of the IRSC and a founder member of the Irish Society for the Study of Children's Literature, Children's Books Ireland, and IBBY Ireland.

Keith O'Sullivan lectures in English at the Church of Ireland College of Education, Dublin. He is a founder member of the Irish Society for the Study of Children's Literature, a former member of the board of directors of Children's Books Ireland, and past chair of the Children's Books Ireland Bisto Book of the Year Awards. He has published on the works of Philip Pullman and Emily Brontë.

Stories from Home Geraldine Noble Tyler, 2008-07-01

In Stories from Home, Geraldine Tyler invites the reader to accompany her on a journey back in time to Lord Dunleath's country estate in rural County Down, Northern Ireland, where her father was the estate's electrician and engineer. Travel to the seashores and parklands of her childhood and meet the colorful folk that populated her youth. Catch a glimpse of the upstairs life of the Irish gentry and the downstairs world of the Manor House servants. Enjoy the wit and wisdom that embodies the Irish character and join her as she revisits her family, whose pathos and humor has so definitively influenced her life.

Geraldine immigrated to America when she was eighteen. She has a Bachelor of Arts degree in English Literature from California State University.

Theorising Oliver Jeffers' Picturebooks Jade Dillon-Craig, 2025-10-16

Theorising Oliver Jeffers' Picturebooks From How to Catch a Star to Now examines semiotic, affective, and metafictional storytelling in Oliver Jeffers' postmodern picturebooks from a multi-theoretical approach. This volume provides fresh insight into Jeffers' iconotextual narratives through textual and visual analysis, exploring how his multimodal texts construct childhood and evoke emotional resonances. The book deconstructs the postmodernity of these narratives, highlighting Jeffers' contemporary methods of storytelling through an exploration of the texts' metafictional and self-reflective elements.

From How to Catch a Star (2004) to Where to Hide a Star (2024), this book journeys through the mindscapes of Jeffers' design and analyses the nuances of metafictional storytelling from a postmodern perspective.

Irish Country Childhood Marrie Walsh, 2004-02

This enchanting story tells of a young girl's magical childhood on a farm in the west of Ireland during the 1930s and 1940s. It looks at the mountain village community, one that was poor though never short of the necessities of life.

Research with Children Pia Christensen, Allison James, 2017-01-12

The entirely revised third edition of Research with Children forms a unique resource book on the methodology of childhood research, with a core emphasis on theory-driven practices. As in the previous two editions this edition presents particular standpoints in the field whilst also reflecting the latest developments in the now well established interdisciplinary field of childhood studies A rich collection of contributions from leading researchers across a range of disciplinary backgrounds research practices and theoretical perspectives discuss central questions of epistemology and methodology demonstrating the links between theory and practice This edition includes exciting new chapters on Internet based research and contemporary technology Family based research Children as researchers Participatory research in the global context New directions for childhood research Both theoretical and practical questions are set out in a well argued fashion that enables easier navigation through the various complexities of the epistemological and methodological questions arising in contemporary research practices with children As such this text will appeal to both the newcomer to childhood studies and to experienced researchers in the field With fully updated chapters new material and a revised clearer structure this new edition will be a valuable resource for researchers working with children

Irish Childhoods Pádraic Whyte, 2011-05-25 While much has been written about Irish culture's apparent obsession with the past and with representing childhood few critics have explored in detail the position of children's fiction within such discourses This book serves to redress these imbalances illuminating both the manner in which children's texts engage with complex cultural discourses in contemporary Ireland and the significant contribution that children's novels and films can make to broader debates concerning Irish identity at the end of the twentieth and beginning of the twenty first centuries Through close analysis of specific books and films published or produced since 1990 Irish Childhoods offers an insight into contrasting approaches to the representation of Irish history and childhood in recent children's fiction Each chapter interrogates the unique manner in which an author or filmmaker engages with twentieth century Irish history from a contemporary perspective and reveals that constructions of childhood in Irish children's fiction are often used to explore aspects of Ireland's past and present

My Irish Childhood Maureen Penn, 2019

Pigs on the Green Barbara Anne Hamilton, 2015-11-25 This is a tale of two young children tasked with cleaning out a pigsty which housed Porgy and Bess who were being fattened for market Bess escapes and created havoc and mayhem in the village as the children tried to catch her much to the annoyance of the townsfolk Help comes from an unexpected quarter and a major crisis was averted
