Urban Policy in Latin America Michael Cohen, Maria Carrizosa, Margarita Gutman, 2019-07-26 This book evaluates the impact of 20 years of urban policies in six Latin American countries Argentina Brazil Chile Colombia Ecuador and Mexico It argues that evaluating the fulfillment of past commitments is essential for framing and meeting the new commitments that were taken in Habitat III over the next 20 years Taken as a whole the book provides a critical assessment of the economic social and environmental consequences of urban interventions during Habitat II The country level chapters have been written by recognized experts in urban issues with first hand knowledge of the Habitat process and deep familiarity with the problems statistics actors and political contexts of their nations The latter part of the volume considers wider topics such as the Habitat Commitment Index the New Urban Agenda and the regional and global scale lessons that can be extracted from this group of countries Urban Policy in Latin America will be of interest to advanced students researchers and policymakers across development economics urban studies and Latin American studies Urban Climates in Latin America Cristián Henríquez, Hugo Romero, 2019-02-23 This book describes the observation of urban climates in Latin American and their relationships with urban sprawl the economic emergence of Latin American countries social segregation urban ecology disasters and resilience The chapters include contributions dealing with urban heat islands local climate zones thermal comfort air pollution extreme climate index green infrastructure health issues and adaptions based on the socio economic background of urban areas This book revises the role of urban planning and environmental governance highlighting the singularities in climate adaptation policies in developing countries Urban Food Systems in Latin America Tiana Bakić Hayden, Joaquín Pérez Martín, 2025-04-18 Drawing on a range of case studies from across Latin America this book highlights the ways that urbanization shapes the food systems that feed this region s cities approaching the problem of food in cities as a particularly urban problem Latin America is the most urbanized area in the world with nearly 80% of the population living in cities where rates of food and nutritional insecurity are persistently high and where the social and spatial organization is characterized by inequality and segregation The broader questions addressed in this volume are as follows How do the specific processes and dynamics of Latin American urbanization influence or shape food systems How can urban food systems develop forms of governance that supports food security and sustainability After a general introduction this volume is organized into three main sections Territories mobilities and governance The chapters consider how specific elements such as urban planning zoning migration gentrification informal settlements logistics retailers wholesale markets and street vendors among others contribute to shaping how food is distributed sold and bought in cities Drawing on studies and theoretical approaches written by scholars and practitioners from Argentina Brazil Chile Ecuador and Mexico this book provides a Latin American perspective on global discussions surrounding the role of cities in ensuring food access to urban populations This volume will be of great interest to students scholars and policymakers interested in food systems urban food urban planning sustainable urban development and Latin American studies

Social Urbanism in Latin America Carlos Leite, Claudia Acosta, Fernanda Militelli, Guillermo Jajamovich, Mariana Wilderom, Nabil Bonduki, Nadia Somekh, Tereza Herling, 2019-10-11 This book highlights current concepts of Social Urbanism the contemporary set of multiple and interdisciplinary urban studies that have emerged mainly from the complex realities of Latin American cities The discussion that follows places special emphasis on public land policy and the innovative urban instruments developed in that region to promote social and territorial inclusion Critical reflections throughout the pages of this book shed light into the local context of each case study in order to understand their specific set of challenges and opportunities Relevant lessons are extracted from the three cities here analyzed the medium scale city of Medellin the large scale city of Bogota and the megacity of Sao Paulo as well as from local innovative experiences in Argentina and Uruguay These cities underwent promising transformation processes over two decades applying planning and financing instruments of land policy which have produced significant shifts in the urban development paradigm in the region The quest for social inclusion has emerged as the common denominator in these cities awakening growing interest across several fields of urban studies from public policies and city management to urban law city financing urban development and innovative community participation processes The book brings implications on urban land policy for transition cities in the Global South The question of social inclusion in Global South cities is however far from being solved the analysis presented in this book shows advances and hope besides a long path still ahead which can only be faced through a continuous and challenging incremental process May this book be an incremental step

Planning Latin America's Capital Cities, 1850-1950 Arturo Almandoz Marte, 2002 In this first comprehensive work in English to describe the building of Latin America's capital cities in the postcolonial period Arturo Almandoz and his contributors demonstrate how Europe and France in particular shaped their culture architecture and planning until the United States began to play a part in the 1930s The book provides a new perspective on international planning

Modernization, Urbanization and Development in Latin America, 1900s - 2000s Arturo Almandoz, 2014-10-10 In this book Arturo Almandoz places the major episodes of Latin America's twentieth and early twenty first century urban history within the changing relationship between industrialization and urbanization modernization and development This relationship began in the early twentieth century when industrialization and urbanization became significant in the region and ends at the beginning of the twenty first century when new tensions between liberal globalization and populist nationalism challenge development in the subcontinent much of which is still poverty stricken Latin America s twentieth century modernization and development are closely related to nineteenth century ideals of progress and civilization and for this reason Almandoz opens with a brief review of that legacy for the different countries that are the focus of his book Mexico Chile Brazil Argentina and Venezuela but with references to others He then explores the regional distortions which resulted from the interaction between industrialization and urbanization and how the imbalance between urbanization and the productive system helps to explain why take off was not followed by the drive to maturity in Latin American countries He suggests that the close yet troublesome relationship with the United States the recurrence of dictatorships and autocratic regimes and Marxist influences in many domains are all factors that explain Latin America s stagnation and underdevelopment up to the so called lost decade of 1980s He shows how Latin America s fate changed in the late twentieth and early twenty first century when neoliberal programmes political compromise and constitutional reform dismantled the traditional model of the corporate state and centralized planning He reveals how economic growth and social improvements have been attained by politically left wing yet economically open market countries while others have resumed populism and state intervention All these trends make up the complex scenario for the new century especially when considered against the background of vibrant metropolises that are the main actors in the book

Urban Social Movements and Political Strategy in Latin America Wilhelmus Gerardus Pansters,1984 Urban Policy in Latin America Michael Cohen, Maria Carrizosa, Margarita Gutman,2019-07-26 This book evaluates the impact of 20 years of urban policies in six Latin American countries Argentina Brazil Chile Colombia Ecuador and Mexico It argues that evaluating the fulfillment of past commitments is essential for framing and meeting the new commitments that were taken in Habitat III over the next 20 years Taken as a whole the book provides a critical assessment of the economic social and environmental consequences of urban interventions during Habitat II The country level chapters have been written by recognized experts in urban issues with first hand knowledge of the Habitat process and deep familiarity with the problems statistics actors and political contexts of their nations The latter part of the volume considers wider topics such as the Habitat Commitment Index the New Urban Agenda and the regional and global scale lessons that can be extracted from this group of countries Urban Policy in Latin America will be of interest to advanced students researchers and policymakers across development economics urban studies and Latin American studies The Urban Environment of Latin America Dale E. Casper,1984 Community Development and the Urban Planning Process in Latin America Francis Violich, Juan B.
