Analytical Reaction Gas Chromatography:

Analytical Reaction Gas Chromatography Viktor G. Berezkin, 2012-12-06 The most universal and effective method for the analysis of complex multicomponent mixtures of volatile substances is gas chromatography. However, there are a number of limitations associated with the classical variation of this technique which retard its development and the further expansion of its application: 1) the identification of the components of a complex mixture of unknown composition is in itself a complex and difficult problem unless the homologous series of the component to be identified is known; 2) the overlapping of chromatographic peaks for several compounds makes it difficult and in a number of cases impossible to carry out qualitative and quantitative analysis of these components and leads to the necessity of using several columns of different polarities or to the use of columns with very high efficiency; 3) the direct analysis of unstable and nonvolatile compounds is impossible; 4) the difficulty of quantitative chromatographic analysis using thermal conductivity detectors increases with the necessity of determining individual response calibration factors; the insensitivity of the flame ionization detector to a number of substances inorganic gases leads to the necessity of introducing additional operations: preliminary concentration of trace components in connection with thermal conductivity detectors. vii viii FOREWORD The directed use of chemical conversion of the compounds analyzed usually makes it possible to remove the limitations cited above.

Practical Gas Chromatography Katja Dettmer-Wilde, Werner Engewald, 2014-11-05 Gas chromatography continues to be one of the most widely used analytical techniques since its applications today expand into fields such as biomarker research or metabolomics. This new practical textbook enables the reader to make full use of gas chromatography. Essential fundamentals and their implications for the practical work at the instrument are provided as well as details on the instrumentation such as inlet systems, columns, and detectors. Specialized techniques from all aspects of GC are introduced, ranging from sample preparation, solvent-free injection techniques, and pyrolysis GC to separation including fast GC and comprehensive GCxGC, and finally detection such as GC-MS and element-specific detection. Various fields of application such as enantiomer, food flavor, and fragrance analysis, physicochemical measurements, forensic toxicology, and clinical analysis are discussed as well as cutting-edge application in metabolomics is covered.

Qualitative Analysis of Flavor and Fragrance Volatiles by Glass Capillary Gas Chromatography Walter Jennings, Takayuki Shibamoto, 1980-10-28 Qualitative Analysis of Flavor and Fragrance Volatiles by Glass Capillary Gas Chromatography deals with the application of glass capillary gas chromatography to qualitative analysis of flavor and fragrance volatiles. Topics range from gas chromatographic system requirements and retention indices to selective detectors, ancillary reactions, and gas chromatography-mass spectrometry. This text is comprised of six chapters, the first of which provides an overview of the use of glass capillary gas chromatography in qualitative analysis of flavor and fragrance volatiles.

The discussion then turns to gas chromatographic system requirements with respect to columns inlets detectors and temperature control The reader is also introduced to the Kovats retention index system which utilizes a logarithmic scale to describe the retention behavior of a compound relative to that of the n paraffin hydrocarbons The use of selective detectors such as thermal conductivity flame ionization nitrogen phosphorus electron capture and photoionization detectors in qualitative analysis is also considered The final two chapters focus on ancillary reactions in glass capillary gas chromatography and general considerations in gas chromatography mass spectrometry including interfacing This book is intended primarily for researchers involved in studies of the volatile constituents of fragrances food and natural products
