Best Oren Fuerst,2011 In recent years outsourcing has become a common practice for firms operating domestically as well as globally The academic and professional literature discusses numerous factors that influence outsourcing decisions including the commonly used argument that activities that are not within the core competencies of a firm should be outsourced In this paper we show that firms may wish to outsource even the manufacture of a product with respect to which they enjoy a competitive advantage Furthermore we provide an explanation as to why firms may decide not to outsource non core products although their competitors can produce them at a lower cost Our model provides an explanation for the often coexistence of rivalrous and buyer supplier relationship between firms in different markets or even the same product market Specifically we show that the understanding of outsourcing or lack of outsourcing arrangements should be based on analysis of the strategic interaction across markets between the parties in the outsourcing arrangements Furthermore in analyzing outsourcing we should not only analyze the production cost of the product being considered but also consider the costs and benefits associated with cross product synergies of the firms Our analysis demonstrates that outsourcing may enable firms to achieve tacit collusion in the presence of restrictions on explicit cooperation However we show that consumers may benefit from outsourcing in spite of its seemingly adverse impact on competition UniForum Monthly ,1995 Determinants of

Information Technology Outsourcing Lawrence Loh,2016-10-26 Excerpt from Determinants of Information Technology Outsourcing A Cross Sectional Analysis It is a truism that information technology it has transcended its established administrative support function and has moved toward playing a more central role of business operations see for instance 14 18 25 Within this tradition research efforts have focused on the use of IT to influence the boundaries of a firm with its suppliers buyers and other intermediaries 6 8 There is however a glaring lack of research emphasis on the role of IT infrastructure as a component of the firm boundary itself In other words while IT has been considered a critical mechanism of multi organizational business relationships the research stream has treated the governance of IT infrastructure to be within one single firm s hierarchy Such an approach fails to recognize the recent trend towards managing a firm s IT infrastructure through a variety of governance mechanisms with other firms About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections
