Victorian Narratives of Failed Emigration Tamara S Wagner, 2016-05-26 In her study of the unsuccessful nineteenth century emigrant Tamara S Wagner argues that failed emigration and return drive nineteenth century writing in English in unexpected culturally revealing ways Wagner highlights the hitherto unexplored subgenre of anti emigration writing that emerged as an important counter current to a pervasive emigration propaganda machine that was pressing popular fiction into its service The exportation of characters at the end of a novel indisputably formed a convenient narrative solution that at once mirrored and exaggerated public policies about so called superfluous or redundant parts of society Yet the very convenience of such pat endings was increasingly called into question New starts overseas might not be so easily realizable emigration destinations failed to live up to the inflated promises of pro emigration rhetoric the unwanted might make a surprising reappearance Wagner juxtaposes representations of emigration in the works of Charles Dickens Wilkie Collins Frances Trollope and Charlotte Yonge with Australian New Zealand and Canadian settler fiction by Elizabeth Murray Clara Cheeseman and Susanna Moodie offering a new literary history not just of nineteenth century migration but also of transoceanic exchanges and genre formation

Romance's Rival Talia Schaffer, 2016-01-05 Romance's Rival argues that the central plot of the most important genre of the nineteenth century the marriage plot novel means something quite different from what we thought In Victorian novels women may marry for erotic desire but they might instead insist on familiar marriage marrying trustworthy companions who can offer them socially rich lives and futures of meaningful work Romance's Rival shows how familiar marriage expresses ideas of female subjectivity dating back through the seventeenth century while romantic marriage felt like a new risky idea Undertaking a major rereading of the rise of the novel tradition from Richardson through the twentieth century Talia Schaffer rethinks what the novel meant if one tracks familiar marriage virtues This alternative perspective offers new readings of major texts Austen the Brontës Eliot Trollope but it also foregrounds women's popular fiction Yonge Oliphant Craik Broughton Offering a feminist perspective that reads the marriage plot from the woman's point of view Schaffer inquires why a female character might legitimately wish to marry for something other than passion For the past half century scholars have valorized desire individuality and autonomy in the way we read novels Romance's Rival asks us to look at the other side to validate the yearning for work family company or social power as legitimate reasons for women's marital choices in Victorian fiction Comprehensive in its knowledge of several generations of scholarship on the novel Romance's Rival convinces us to re-examine assumptions about the nature and function of marriage and the role of the novel in helping us not simply imagine marriage but also process changing ideas about what it might look like and how it might serve people
