The Charm of Oxford Joseph Wells,1920 The Charm of Oxford Joseph Wells,1924 The Charm of Oxford (Classic Reprint) J. Wells,2015-07-04 Excerpt from The Charm of Oxford There are many books on Oxford the justification for this new one is Mr Blackall s drawings They will serve by their grace and charm pleasantly to recall to those who know Oxford the scenes they love they will incite those who do not know Oxford to remedy that defect in their lives My own letterpress is only written to accompany the drawings It is intended to remind Oxford men of the things they know or ought to know it is intended still more to help those who have not visited Oxford to understand the drawings and to appreciate some of the historical associations of the scenes represented I have written quite freely as this seemed the best way to create the impression wished I have to acknowledge some obligations to Messrs Seccombe Scotts Praise of Oxford a book the pages of which an Oxford man can always turn over with pleasure and to Mr J B Firths Minstrelsy of Isis it is not his fault that the poetic merit of so much of his collection is poor Oxford has not on the whole been fortunate in her poets My own quotations are more often chosen for their local colour than for their poetic merit I have unavoidably had to borrow a good deal from my own Oxford and its Colleges but the aim of the two books is very different About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works *The Charm of Oxford, by J.
