Women in American Cartography Judith Tyner, 2019-11-13 Although women have been involved in mapping throughout history their story has largely been hidden The standard histories of cartography have focused on men A woman s name is rarely found In Women in American Cartography Judith Tyner argues that women were not deliberately erased but overlooked because of the types of maps they made and the jobs they held Tyner looks at over fifty women exemplars in American cartography and their maps She looks at teachers who made school atlases in the early nineteenth century at pictorial mapmakers and book illustrators who created popular maps at women who pioneered social and persuasive mapping promoting causes such as suffrage at women travelers who recorded their trips and mapped unexplored places at women whose maps helped win World War II at women academics who studied taught and wrote about cartographic theory at colleges and universities and at women who worked in government agencies and commercial mapping companies
