

ATTITUDE IN THE WORKPLACE

Have you ever considered how your attitude - positive or negative - affects your overall job performance? What type of attitude do you present to your colleagues, subordinates, and associates? It is common to experience periods where attitude could be improved - however a consistently negative attitude can be detrimental to your wellbeing. If you are generally a negative person, you should consider what effects could contribute to a more positive attitude.

Positive attitude and health benefits

There are many benefits of a positive attitude. Aside from the obvious - improved mood and being more enjoyable to be around, researchers at The Mayo Clinic have discovered possible benefits including:

- Increased life span
- Lower rates of depression Lower levels of distress
- Greater resistance to the common cold
- Better psychological and physical well-being
- Reduced risk of death from cardiovascular disease
- Better coping skills during hardships and times of stress

Attitude towards workplace safety

A negative attitude in the workplace can lead to inaccuracy, complacency, and task distraction. A negative attitude towards safety processes, can result in unsafe behaviours, putting yourself and your colleagues at risk of injury or property damage.

Question: Is your overall attitude as it relates to safety positive or negative? Think about why you answered this way.

How to improve your attitude

1. Determine whether you are displaying signs of a negative attitude. The first step to improve your attitude is to ask yourself how your attitude is today, and you feel this way. If it is negative then you need to try to improve it to be a safer, more productive employee.
2. Identify the source of the issue/s. After you recognize the state of your attitude it is important to find the contributing source of these issues. What is frustrating you, and why is it impacting you? Whatever the issue, take note of the sources of your negative attitude.
3. Address the issues. Take the time to address what is having a negative effect on your attitude. For example, if it is an issue with a co-worker or boss, have a conversation with them. Most issues can be resolved with a constructive conversation. If the issue cannot be resolved with a conversation with the other person, go to another level of management to resolve it.
4. Monitor your attitude. It is important to regularly self-assess - what attitude am I displaying and how am I presenting to my colleagues. A good way to do this is to monitor your thoughts or conversations - if your thoughts are consistently more negative than positive, it is a good indicator that you need to improve your attitude.
