Aural Harmony Franklin Whitman Robinson,1923      Aural Harmony Franklin Whitman Robinson,2013-04-07      Aural Harmony Franklin W. Robinson,2015-06-14 Excerpt from Aural Harmony Vol 1 After many years of experience in the teaching of harmony along the lines usually followed in presenting the subject the author has come to feel an intense need for a presentation that would meet the demands of the lesser talent as well as the great talent a presentation which would seek to edify the student by appealing to his musical consciousness through the ear and by means of that experience to equip him with the power to hear what he writes The opportunity presented itself when the Institute of Musical Art in New York City came into existence it is therefore with warmest gratitude that the author acknowledges not only the kindness but the unqualified trust which the director of the Institute Dr Frank Damrosch has shown in permitting the initial presentation of aural harmony The high standard of musical study as carried on at the Institute of Musical Art has been a great stimulus in working out and in bringing to fruition this new subject The author also wishes to extend his thanks to Mr Thomas Tapper for his kindness in reviewing and criticising the subject matter and the form of presentation of this book It is hoped that the treatise will be accepted in the spirit in which it has been written namely a sincere effort to present the subject of harmony in a more useful and tangible form and thereby to make it more applicable and adaptable to all the fields of musical experience About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works      Aural Harmony in the Practise of Church Music Mervin Lewis Snyder,1945      Aural Harmony, Vol. 1 \(Classic Reprint\) Franklin W. Robinson,2018-01-15 Excerpt from Aural Harmony Vol 1 Upon these two laws depend all the tonal relationships possible in music In the training of the ear in music the tonal relationships determining the harmonic law being basic are discerned first the tonal relationships determining the melodic law being dependent upon the harmonic law are discerned next All tones in music are related to each other through the medium of activity and rest The degree of any scale is either a rest tone or an active tone any chord Of the scale is either a rest chord or one of many active chords Play the scale of C and perceive the active quality of the tone B the rest quality of the tone C or the tone G The musical ear is quickly affected by these qualities and commensurable with the power of the ear to discern the active and rest qualities which tones possess is a person considered musical The ear is therefore trained i to listen to related tones and not to isolated tones 2 to listen in the ensemble and not to single tones 3 to listen to tonal relationship through the medium of activity and rest as setting up two laws harmonic and melodic which make those tonal relationships purposeful and not merely pleasant sounding concords or melodies In formulating a method for the study of aural theory all of these points will be taken into consideration About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Robinson,2017-08-11 Trieste Publishing has a massive catalogue of classic book titles Our aim is to provide readers with the highest quality reproductions of fiction and non fiction literature that has stood the test of time The many thousands of books in our collection have been sourced from libraries and private collections around the world The titles that Trieste Publishing has chosen to be part of the collection have been scanned to simulate the original Our readers see the books the same way that their first readers did decades or a hundred or more years ago Books from that period are often spoiled by imperfections that did not exist in the original Imperfections could be in the form of blurred text photographs or missing pages It is highly unlikely that this would occur with one of our books Our extensive quality control ensures that the readers of Trieste Publishing s books will be delighted with their purchase Our staff has thoroughly reviewed every page of all the books in the collection repairing or if necessary rejecting titles that are not of the highest quality This process ensures that the reader of one of Trieste Publishing s titles receives a volume that faithfully reproduces the original and to the maximum degree possible gives them the experience of owning the original work We pride ourselves on not only creating a pathway to an extensive reservoir of books of the finest quality but also providing value to every one of our readers Generally Trieste books are purchased singly on demand however they may also be purchased in bulk Readers interested in bulk purchases are invited to contact us directly to enquire about our tailored bulk rates The Role of Performance in Aural Harmony Thomas Peter Laue,2012 Harmony is a fundamental topic that pervades much of tertiary level aural training Many activities in aural harmony that are described in the literature however represent idiosyncratic prescriptions of set exercises e g harmonic dictation No researcher has previously attempted to systematically compare a broad range of pedagogical approaches in aural harmony Furthermore despite the critical role of performance in music education there is little understanding of how and why students engage in performance and other actions during aural harmony activities The primary aim of this dissertation is to investigate the multitude of pedagogical approaches within the subject of aural harmony This is achieved through the discovery classification and evaluation of pedagogical approaches as revealed through class observations and discussions with teachers at ten tertiary institutions in four countries Japan the US Sweden and Norway Through an extensive examination of this data I identify 89 aural harmony activities Chapter 2 My analysis of these activities results in the creation of a classification system Chapter 3 There are four categories in this classification system Each category represents a type of action sequence which in turn represents one action leading to another action The four categories thus indicate fundamentally different learning outcomes I classify each of the 89 collected activities under one or more categories which enables me to systematically compare the pedagogical approaches within each of the four categories of activities Chapters 4 6 The secondary aim of this dissertation is to report my experiences of applying the insight and knowledge gained from the above analyses to my own teaching within an Australian tertiary music institution Chapter 7 Following an explanation of my particular educational context I describe the process of devising developing and implementing five activities Of these activities one uniquely enables students to simulate performance actions through gestures I evaluate these activities based on student feedback as well as my self reflection This research has resulted in detailed descriptions of a considerable range of aural harmony activities Appendix A My analyses of these activities reveal a range of pedagogical approaches that can maximise our students acquisition of aural skills I argue that while student performance is valuable in much of aural training there are alternative means of engaging students that can also result in favourable learning experiences This dissertation concludes with a consideration of the applicability of two of the activities presented in Chapter 7 as well as the classification system proposed in Chapter 3 across other areas of aural skills pedagogy provided by Candidate Register ... University of California, Berkeley, 1923 Aural Harmony Franklin W.
