Charlie An Unwanted Child:

Charlie-an Unwanted Child? Michael Jacobs,1995 In this fascinating book which starts with Charlie s own story the reader has the chance to see six different therapists at work drawing on the same initial material from the one real client The similarities and differences between therapies and therapists are highlighted And at the end the reader is able to enter Charlie s experience of the process and decide with her which one she might choose in her search for a therapist

Hegemonic Individualism and Subversive Stories in Capital Mitigation Ross Kleinstuber,2016-04-22 Capital punishment policies in the USA are almost always justified by an individualistic belief in either rational choice or dispositional attribution which justifies the death penalty either as a deterrent or for retributive or incapacitative purposes This book takes an in depth look at the mitigation process and the use of individualism in the capital sentencing process The work examines the use of individualistic hegemonic and contextualizing subversive discourses in the mitigation cases presented by capital defense attorneys and experts from trials in Delaware and how these discourses were understood interpreted and utilized by jurors who served on those trials and by the judges who imposed the final sentences This in depth sociological examination of the use of individualizing and contextualizing accounts throughout the entire mitigation process helps to illuminate the challenges involved in structuring a death penalty that is not arbitrary in a culture that is overwhelmed by individualizing discourses and thus struggles to account for the entrenched racial and economic inequality that is so conducive to lethal violence In conclusion it questions the entire premise of the Supreme Court s jurisprudence of death which rests on a belief that the discretion of decision makers can be guided in a way that accounts for contextualizing evidence and will reduce the death penalty s arbitrary and discriminatory application The Cumulative Book Index

Emotions and Needs Dawn Freshwater,Chris Robertson,2002 Robertson and Freshwater explicitly use the development of a therapeutic relationship and parallel with it the development of an individual psyche as a vehicle for their exploration of emotions and needs The subtlety is that their exploration like psychotherapy itself begins with the complexity and ends with the simplicity Self Society Through the centrality of the concepts of needs and emotions this volume describes and discusses issues that are fundamental to psychotherapy As an alternative to classifying modalities of psychotherapy and the way in which they understand needs and emotions by their author era or underpinning philosophy this book focuses instead on the emotional patterning of psychotherapy The book explores need and emotion in relation to what patients bring to therapy and what subsequently facilitates effective engagement Examining ways of understanding the manifestation of needs and emotions the authors bring differing therapeutic schools of thought together in contemporary models of integrative psychotherapy which draw upon the transpersonal postmodern and poststructural The book is illustrated throughout with clinical vignettes which help the reader ground the theoretical concepts in everyday practice The discussions in this volume not only add to the current body of knowledge surrounding the fundamental concepts of emotions and needs but also make a long overdue contribution to the psychotherapeutic professions Emotions and Needs will be of interest to students and practitioners in fields such as counselling psychotherapy clinical psychology and social work Dusty Answer Rosamond Lehmann,1930 A coming of age story about a shy young girl s fascination with the glamorous cousins who live next door
