Born into a country on the brink of civil war, he knows the real meaning of survival. After a decade living in Canada, things aren't getting any easier, but if he can keep his head down for his last year of high school, he thinks there might be an out for him from his poverty-stricken neighborhood. Too bad fate likes to throw fastballs at Eje, and he's forced into an afterschool paddling program. The Aquatic club is filled with white kids who like to run for fun and paddle for performance. Eje has talent, but liking paddling doesn't mean much when you're another kid from the projects. Shannon used to live to paddle. After a drunk driver crashed into the car holding her, and her mother's life has been anything but normal. Re-learning how to kayak isn't fun, and trying to find out where she stands with her once BFFs at the club reinforces how much has changed. Before the accident, she'd never give a newbie paddler the time of day, but the minute she meets Eje, all that changes. Unlike the guys at the club, Eje's mysterious without trying. When ultimatums threaten to end the afterschool paddle program and secrets get revealed, will Eje and Shannon forget their friendship for the good of others, or trust each other to do right? Two teens with little in common tackle prejudice and stereotypes to risk it all to help each other. Mr. Bartram's daughter Catherine Jane Hamilton, 1882 Temple Bar, 1900 Prodigal Daughter Jane Carter, 2017-09-01 Diana's reluctant homecoming exposes the deep fissures within her family's relationships with each other.
