Once I remember well when I was hungering for a breath of country air a woman brown with the caresses of the wind and sun brought the Spring to my door and sold it to me for a penny The husky rough scent of those Primroses gave me news of England that I longed to hear When I had placed my owers in a bowl and put them on the table where I worked they told me stories of the lanes and woods how thrushes sang and the wild Cherry Blossom ared delicately across the purpling trees A ower often will reclaim a mood when nothing else Will bring it back About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Old-time Charm in
