The Philosophy of Expertise Evan Selinger, Robert P. Crease, 2006 From the use of expert testimony in the courtroom to the advice we rely on to solve key economic political and social problems expertise is an essential part of our decision making process However the extent to which experts can be trusted is a subject of persistent and contentious debate The Philosophy of Expertise is the first collection to explore the fundamental philosophical issues surrounding these authorities and their expert knowledge Part 1 considers the problems surrounding the issue of trust and deference part 2 launches a phenomenological clarification of expertise that pinpoints the universal structures embodied in cognition and affect and part 3 examines the consequences of the social and technical externalization of expertise Contributors including Edward Said Alvin Goldman Peter Singer Hubert Dreyfus Julia Annas Harry Collins and Don Ihde draw on a number of intellectual approaches to explore the justification of expert authority the potentially dangerous role of expertise in a liberal democratic society how laypeople can critique experts and the social and ideological character of expert advice The contributors also discuss the reasoning process of judges and juries the ancient Greek view of moral conduct and the incorporation of experts into governmental bureaucracy By honestly tackling the legitimacy and consistency of various positions this volume sheds much needed light on the theoretical dimensions of a controversial and pervasive practice Contributors Alvin I Goldman Don Ihde Edward Said Evan Selinger and John Mix Evan Selinger and Robert P Crease H M Collins and Robert Evans H l ne Mialet Hubert Dreyfus John Hardwig Julia Annas Paul Feyerabend Peter Singer Scott Brewer Steve Fuller Steven Turner characterizes Ihde as being among the most interesting and provocative contemporary American philosophers. The contributors situate, assess, and apply Ihde's philosophy with respect to the primary themes that his oeuvre emphasizes. They not only clarify Ihde's work but also make significant contributions to the philosophy of technology, phenomenology, hermeneutics, and the philosophy of science. A comprehensive response from Ihde concludes the volume.

Technology, Media Literacy, and the Human Subject Richard S. Lewis, 2021-06-03. Media literacy is often focused on evaluating the message rather than reflecting on the medium. Bringing together postphenomenology, media ecology, posthumanism, and complexity theory, Richard Lewis's book offers a method for such a reflection and shows how our everyday media environments constitute us as post-human subjects, one that is becoming and constitutes through relations, also with our media technologies. An original interdisciplinary effort including, for example, the term intrasubjective mediation and a must-read book for everyone interested in how we become with and through technologies. Prof. Mark Coeckelbergh, University of Vienna.

Technology, Media Literacy, and the Human Subject is a clearly and concisely written book that employs a fruitful transdisciplinary approach. It at once offers an excellent grounding in the literature whilst simultaneously developing a useful tool for students to reflect deeply and critically upon their own engagement with media. Thoroughly recommended. Alexander Thomas, University of East London.

What does it mean to be media literate in today's world? How are we transformed by the many media infrastructures around us? We are immersed in a world mediated by information and communication technologies (ICTs). From hardware like smartphones, smartwatches, and home assistants to software like Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, and Snapchat, our lives have become a complex interconnected network of relations. Scholarship on media literacy has tended to focus on developing the skills to access, analyze, evaluate, and create media messages without considering or weighing the impact of the technological medium, how it enables and constrains both messages and media users. Additionally, there is often little attention paid to the broader context of interrelations which affect our engagement with media technologies. This book addresses these issues by providing a transdisciplinary method that allows for both practical and theoretical analyses of media investigations. Informed by postphenomenology, media ecology, philosophical posthumanism, and complexity theory, the author proposes both a framework and a pragmatic instrument for understanding the multiplicity of relations that all contribute to how we affect and are affected by our relations with media technology. The author argues persuasively that the increased awareness provided by this posthuman approach affords us a greater chance for reclaiming some of our agency and provides a sound foundation upon which we can then judge our media relations. This book will be an indispensable tool for educators in media literacy and media studies, as well as academics in philosophy of technology, media and communication studies, and the post-humanities.

The Material of Knowledge Susan Hekman,2010-04-19 Susan Hekman believes we are witnessing an intellectual sea change The main features of this change are found in dichotomies between language and reality discourse and materiality Hekman proposes that it is possible to find a more intimate connection between these pairs one that does not privilege one over the other By grounding her work in feminist thought and employing analytic philosophy scientific theory and linguistic theory Hekman shows how language and reality can be understood as an indissoluble unit In this broadly synthetic work she offers a new interpretation of questions of science modernism postmodernism and feminism so as to build knowledge of reality and extend how we deal with nature and our increasingly diverse experiences of it
