Bakhtinian Perspectives On Language Literacy And Learning:

Bakhtinian Perspectives on Language, Literacy, and Learning Arnetha F. Ball, Sarah Warshauer Freedman, 2004-08-23

This 2004 book represents a multidisciplinary collaboration that highlights the significance of Mikhail Bakhtin's theories to modern scholarship in the field of language and literacy. Book chapters examine such important questions as: What resources do students bring from their home community environments that help them become literate in school? What knowledge do teachers need in order to meet the literacy needs of varied students? How can teacher educators and professional development programs better understand teachers' needs and help them to become better prepared to teach diverse literacy learners? What challenges lie ahead for literacy learners in the coming century? Chapters are contributed by scholars who write from varied disciplinary perspectives. In addition, other scholarly voices enter into a Bakhtinian dialogue with these scholars about their ideas. These other voices help our readers push the boundaries of current thinking on Bakhtinian theory and make this book a model of heteroglossia and dialogic intertextuality.

Dialogue With Bakhtin on Second and Foreign Language Learning Joan Kelly Hall, Gergana Vitanova, Ludmila A. Marchenkova, 2004-12-13. This volume is the first to explore links between the Russian linguist Mikhail Bakhtin's theoretical insights about language and practical concerns with second and foreign language learning and teaching. Situated within a strong conceptual framework and drawing from a rich empirical base, it reflects recent scholarship in applied linguistics that has begun to move away from formalist views of language as universal autonomous linguistic systems and toward an understanding of language as dynamic collections of cultural resources. According to Bakhtin, the study of language is concerned with the dialogue existing between linguistic elements and the uses to which they are put in response to the conditions of the moment. Such a view of language has significant implications for current understandings of second and foreign language learning. The contributors draw on some of Bakhtin's more significant concepts such as dialogue, utterance, heteroglossia, voice, and addressivity to examine real-world contexts of language learning. The chapters address a range of contexts, including elementary and university-level English as a second language and foreign language classrooms and adult learning situations outside the formal classroom. The text is arranged in two parts: Part I, Contexts of Language Learning and Teaching, contains seven chapters that report on investigations into specific contexts of language learning and teaching. The chapters in Part II, Implications for Theory and Practice, present broader discussions on second and foreign language learning using Bakhtin's ideas as a springboard for thinking. This is a groundbreaking volume for scholars in applied linguistics, language education, and language studies with an interest in second and foreign language learning for teacher educators and for teachers of languages from elementary to university levels. It is highly relevant as a text for graduate-level courses in applied linguistics and second and foreign language education.

The Bloomsbury Handbook of Early Childhood Transitions Research Aline-Wendy Dunlop, Sally Peters, Sharon Lynn Kagan, 2024-09-19. Research into early childhood transitions has become a field in its own right. It is increasingly understood that a positive start in any new setting can influence the child's engagement sense of belonging well being progression in learning and agency and may be dependent on the insight of educators and families and yet there is no research methodology or research methods book dedicated to this growing field of study Including 27 chapters written by researchers from the UK New Zealand the USA Sweden Iceland Australia and Canada this handbook presents an overview of the field exploring its current debates reflects on its history and offers suggestions for the future of the field This book is an essential reference point for anyone studying or undertaking research into transitions in early childhood

Educational Contexts and Borders through a Cultural Lens Giuseppina Marsico, Virgínia Dazzani, Marilena Ristum, Ana Cecília de Sousa Bastos, 2015-09-10 This book provides a context of discussion for researchers and educational experts in order to rethink the relationship between actors practices and borders within the educational contexts The research in educational psychology has often challenged the concept of educational context According to the different theoretical frameworks the construct of contexts their borders and the dimensions to be taken into account have all been defined in different ways The book offers a reflection that goes from theory to practice and backward from practice to theory The main research questions the book addresses are how actors i.e teachers parents and students educators and professionals with their own identity and social representations build their educational practices or their shared cultural spaces where knowledge is generated defining the borders of the educational contexts The book proposes that a border is a type of membrane within and outside the educational setting bringing together different actors groups and cultures The book presents the perspectives of scholars and educational experts from various parts of the world including Brazil Argentina Italy Japan and the United Kingdom They shed light on what happens at the border in different cultural contexts and what the relationship is between the educational setting and the other life contexts or micro cultures

Pedagogy of Multiliteracies Heather Lotherington, 2012-04-23 Based on case studies from public schools in Toronto Canada this book aims to develop a theory and practice of teaching multiliteracies in culturally diverse linguistically heterogeneous urban classrooms Lotherington argues that in a globalized world literacy must be reassessed on an international scale and multilingualism must be theorized and practiced as a component of multimodal literacy

Curriculum, Syllabus Design and Equity Allan Luke, Annette Woods, Katie Weir, 2012-08-21 Curriculum scholars and teachers working for social justice and equity have been caught up in acrimonious and polarizing political debates over content ideology and disciplinary knowledge At the forefront in cutting through these debates and addressing the practical questions involved this book is distinctive in looking to the technical form of the curriculum rather than its content for solutions The editors and contributors all leading international scholars advance a unified principled approach to the design of curriculum and syllabus documents that aims for high quality high equity educational outcomes and enhances teacher professionalism with appropriate system prescription Stressing local curriculum development capacity and teacher professional responses to specific community and student contexts this useful practical primer introduces and unpacks definitions of curriculum syllabus the school subject and informed professionalism presents key principles of design discusses a range of approaches and offers clear realistic guidelines for the tasks of writing curriculum documents and designing official syllabi and professional development programs at system and school levels Providing a foundational structure for syllabus design work Curriculum Syllabus Design and Equity is relevant for teachers teacher educators and curriculum policy workers everywhere who are engaged in the real work of curriculum writing and implementation

New Materialist Explorations into Language Education Johanna Enns-Kananen, Taina Saarinen, 2022-10-10 This open access book analyzes language education through a socio material framework The authors revisit their position as researchers by decentering themselves and humans in general from the main focus of research activities and giving way to the materialities that are agentic but often overlooked parts of our research contexts and processes Through this critical posthumanist realism they are able to engage in research that sees society as an ethical interrelationship between humans and the material world and explore the socio materialities of language education from the perspectives of material agency spatial and embodied materiality and human and non human assemblages Each chapter explores language educational contexts through a unique lens of socio materiality Based on how the authors conceptualize socio materiality the book is organized in three sections that seek answers to the following overarching questions In what ways do material agencies emerge in language educational contexts How are educational choices and experiences intertwined with materialities of spaces and bodies What assemblages of human and non human may occur in language education contexts Each chapter questions in its own way the notion of the human subject as rational enlightened being and sole possessor of agency and offers examples of allowing for other than human agency to enter the picture Together the contributors exemplify how researchers who have been committed to social constructionist thinking for most of their careers learn to make space for new theories thus inspiring and encouraging readers to remain open for new intellectual and embodied endeavors

Studies in Applied Linguistics and Language Learning Ahmar Mahboob, Caroline Lipovsky, 2009 Studies in Applied Linguistics and Language Learning brings together new and original studies in the area of critical applied linguistics language policy and planning and language learning and teaching The book divided into three sections first offers critical views on various aspects of language in society ranging from the construction of national identity language and justice racial and identity issues in the ELT industry to language in
