Balance And Refinement Beyond Coherence Methods Of Moral Inquiry:

Balance and Refinement Michael R. DePaul, 2006-12-05 We all have moral beliefs But what if one belief conflicts with another DePaul argues that we have to make our beliefs cohere but that the current coherence methods are seriously flawed It is not just the arguments that need to be considered in moral enquiry DePaul asserts that the ability to make sensitive moral judgements is vital to any philosophical inquiry into morality The inquirer must consider how her life experiences and experiences with literature film and theatre have influenced her capacity for making moral judgments and attempt to ensure that this capacity is neither naive nor corrupted

Virtue Epistemology Stephen Napier, 2008-09-01 Contemporary epistemology debates have largely been occupied with formulating a definition of knowledge that is immune to any counterexample To date no definition has been able to escape unscathed Moving away from debates about definitions Virtue Epistemology shows what conditions are essential for knowledge and applies this account to different domains It proposes that agents must be motivated correctly to acquire knowledge even in the case of perception Stephen Napier examines closely the empirical research in cognitive science and moral psychology to build an account of knowledge wherein an agent must perform acts of virtue in order to get knowledge In so doing Napier provides answers to two key questions what is knowledge and how do we get it

What Makes Us Moral? On the capacities and conditions for being moral Bert Musschenga, Anton van Harskamp, 2013-06-13 This book addresses the question of what it means to be moral and which capacities one needs to be moral It questions whether empathy is a cognitive or an affective capacity or perhaps both As most moral beings behave immorally from time to time the authors ask which factors cause or motivate people to translate their moral beliefs into action Specially addressed is the question of what is the role of internal factors such as willpower commitment character and what is the role of external situational and structural factors The questions are considered from various disciplinary perspectives

Justifying Judgment Vincent Joseph Samar, 1998 Samar philosophy Loyola U seeks to develop a metatheory of law that judges could use to decide very hard cases in which the law offers no firm precedents or it is not clear whether the applicable law is just He discusses theories of political philosophy that set a foundation for the duty to obey law presents a natural law justification for a legal system containing morally just laws uses his metatheory to resolve five historically significant constitutional cases and offers suggestions for legal education Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Balance Paul Thagard, 2022-07-05 Living is a balancing act Ordinary activities like walking running or riding a bike require the brain to keep the body in balance A dancer s poised elegance and a tightrope walker s breathtaking performance are feats of balance Language abounds with expressions and figures of speech that invoke balance People fret over work life balance or try to eat a balanced diet The concept crops up from politics checks and balances the balance of power balanced budgets to science in which ideas of equilibrium are crucial Why is balance so fundamental and how do physical and metaphorical balance shed light on each other Paul Thagard explores the physiological workings and metaphorical resonance of balance in the brain the body and society He describes the neural mechanisms that keep bodies balanced and explains why their failures can result in nausea falls or vertigo Thagard connects bodily balance with leading ideas in neuroscience including the nature of consciousness He analyzes balance metaphors across science medicine economics the arts and philosophy showing why some aid understanding but others are misleading or harmful Thagard contends that balance is ultimately a matter of making sense of the world In both literal and metaphorical senses balance is what enables people to solve the puzzles of life by turning sensory signals or an incongruous comparison into a coherent whole Bridging philosophy psychology and neuroscience Balance shows how an unheralded concept s many meanings illuminate the human condition

Moral Sensibility Theory and Moral Objectivity Christopher Lee Blakey,1998 Moral Reasoning and Justification in Medical Ethics Kyungsuk Choi,2003

Moral Knowledge? Walter Sinnott-Armstrong,Mark Timmons,1996 Moral Knowledge is a collection of specially commissioned papers each presenting a major position within the field of moral epistemology Chapters start by introducing readers to the position the author defends locating this position vis vis competing views and explaining technical vocabulary before arguing that position Topics covered include moral skepticism moral truth projectivism contractarianism coherentism feminist views quasi realism and pragmatism Most authors are established philosophers in the field

Moral Realism and the New Intuitionism Elizabeth L. Tropman,2006 To motivate my position further I show that new intuitionism succeeds where competing metaethical theories do not such as projectivistic non cognitivism and sensibility theory While I argue that some form of moral realism is ultimately correct I claim that a leading brand of realism Cornell realism should be rejected since it provides an inappropriate picture of moral reasoning and moral knowledge A central thesis of my dissertation is that we can be realists about morality by being intuitionists and that new moral intuitionism is a promising version of realism worthy of closer attention

Rightness Yong Huang, 2001 Religious Goodness and Political Rightness offers a stimulating timely examination of the liberal and communitarian approaches to the conflicts between people's religious ideas of the Good and their political ideas of the Right Coming from a non-partisan perspective Huang argues that liberalism fails to see that politics cannot be neutral to all religions by equally ignoring them all while communitarianism fails to understand that politics based on one single religion may lead either to political sectarianism or totalitarianism in a religiously plural society

Punishment and Restorative Crime-handling Aleksandar Fatić, 1995 The general aim of this work is to examine the main features of some of the most influential contemporary theories of criminal justice to look at their conceptual and methodological relative advantages and shortcomings and to try to glean in them a direction for the devising of a more promising more optimising way of accounting for crime and deviance as well as for prospects of successful social control The general contention of the work is that the key question to be asked in this respect is what value ought to lie at the base of all such explanatory attempts The general answer with which the restorative theory of crime handling espoused herein deals is that this value ought to be trust All those arrangements which can generally be characterised as trust enhancing appear to be optimising as well and to contribute in a constructive way to the resolution of conflicts Punishment on the other hand does not appear to be trust enhancing on the contrary it seems to play an essentially trust degrading role in most contexts and thus creates an atmosphere and consequences which do not suggest the possibility of both effective and humane social control mechanisms It has been the aim of theories of social control for decades to avoid excessive punitiveness and maximise the consensus which is built around the particular policies to that effect Yet most such theories have ended up neglecting the role of trust and emphasising justice instead Another contention of the arguments contained herein is to the effect that justice ought not to play such a prominent role in any theory of social control which aspires to be trust enhancing Following the unavoidable directions of arguments advanced over decades the arguments herein deal with theories such as retributivism and utilitarianism communitarianism and republicanism thereby bordering on political and even on sociological theory Yet they do not remain on the level of presenting arguments for and against these theories the value of what is argued here against such theories if there is any value in it lies in its contribution to the fuller illumination of the real role of trust in a social theory of crime control which would derive strongly from the popular conflict resolution theories but which at the same time would seek to avoid some of their greatest calamities To what extent this work might have succeeded in accomplishing that end however is of course up to the reader to judge
