Bush,1999-03-01 The New Orleans writer Grace King was an intensely loyal daughter of the South Fostered by bitter memories of the Civil War her loyalty was kept burning by her family s struggle to regain its wealth and maintain its social position during the long agony of Reconstruction In Grace King A Southern Destiny Robert Bush tells of King s life and her art both of which she enthusiastically dedicated to the memory and welfare of her region her city and her family When she began writing in 1886 it was out of a sense of anger at what she saw as George Washington Cable s disloyalty to the South his deliberately false portrayal of New Orleans Creoles and blacks King was herself a conservative in racial matters and a number of her stories celebrate the loyalty that she has observed freed slaves showing their former masters But Grace King was far from conservative in her determination to earn money as a writer and to master the ideas of her era neither endeavor considered a particularly appropriate ambition for a patrician woman of her time She was proud to be able to contribute to her family s income and she developed a sharp eye for the fluctuations in the literary marketplace In the late 1880s King worked in the local color genre that was then in vogue When the demand for that school of regional writing declined in the 1890s she turned to the shorter balcony stories in which the details of local background were minimized Then later in the decade she focused her talents on writing Louisiana history after she found that publishers wanted the kind of sound colorful work she was capable of producing Grace King s major accomplishments in fiction are a small number of first rate stories and a quiet realistic novel about New Orleans during Reconstruction The Pleasant Ways of St M dard Her best historical work is New Orleans the Place and the People However the significance and fascination of her life lies not just in the pages of the books she wrote but also in her role as a literary champion of the South carrying her determined views from New Orleans to New York New England Canada England and France Balcony Stories Grace King,2005-12 Balcony Stories E. King Grace E. King,2008-01 Balcony Stories Grace King,2014-03-01 THERE is much of life passed on the balcony in a country where the summer unrolls in six moon lengths and where the nights have to come with a double endowment of vastness and splendor to compensate for the tedious sun parched days And in that country the women love to sit and talk together of summer nights on balconies in their vague loose white garments men are not balcony sitters with their sleeping children within easy hearing the stars breaking the cool darkness or the moon making a show of light oh such a discreet show of light through the vines And the children inside waking to go from one sleep into another hear the low soft mother voices on the balcony talking about this person and that old times old friends old experiences and it seems to them hovering a moment in wakefulness that there is no end of the world or time or of the mother knowledge but illimitable as it is the mother voices and the mother love and protection fill it all with their mother s hand in theirs children are not afraid even of God and they drift into slumber again their little dreams taking all kinds of pretty reflections from the great unknown horizon outside as their fragile soap bubbles take on reflections from the sun and clouds Experiences reminiscences episodes picked up as only women know how to pick them up from other women s lives or other women s destinies as they prefer to call them and told as only women know how to relate them what God has done or is doing with some other woman whom they have known that is what interests women once embarked on their own lives the embarkation takes place at marriage or after the marriageable time or rather that is what interests the women who sit of summer nights on balconies For in those long moon countries life is open and accessible and romances seem to be furnished real and gratis in order to save in a languor breeding climate the ennui of reading and writing books Each woman has a different way of picking up and relating her stories as each one selects different pieces and has a personal way of playing them on the piano

Narratives of Community Roxanne Harde, 2009-03-26 Narratives of Community draws together essays that examine short story sequences by women through the lenses of Sandra Zagarell s theoretical essay Narrative of Community Reading texts from countries around the world the collection s twenty two contributors expand scholarship on the genre as they employ diverse theoretical models to consider how female identity is negotiated in community or the roles of women in domestic social and literary community Grouped into four sections based on these examinations the essays demonstrate how Zagarell s theory can provide a point of reference for multiple approaches to women s writing as they read the semiotic systems of community While narrative of community provides an organizing principle behind this collection these essays offer critical approaches grounded in a wide variety of disciplines Zagarell contributes the collection s concluding essay in which she provides a series of reflections on literary and cultural representations of community on generic categorizations of community and on regionalism and narrative of community as she returns to theoretical ground she first broke almost twenty years ago Overall these essays bring their contributors and readers into a community engaged with a narrative genre that inspires and affords a rich and growing tradition of scholarship With Narratives of Community editor Roxanne Harde offers a wealth of critical essays on a wide variety of women s linked series of short stories essays that can be seen overall to explore the genre as a kind of meeting house of fictional form and meaning for an inclusive sororal community The book itself joins a growing critical community of monographs and essay collections that have been critically documenting the rise of the modern genre of the story cycle to a place second only to the novel But more than simply joining this critical venture Narratives of Community makes a major contribution to studies in the short story feminist theory women's studies and genre theory Its introduction and essays should prove of enduring interest to scholars and critics in these fields as well as continue highly useful in the undergraduate and graduate classrooms Gerald Lynch Professor of English University of Ottawa The introduction by Prof Harde and the 20 essays in the book dialogue with Sandra Zagarell's proposed paradigm narratives of community which other scholars have called short story cycles or story sequences Zagarell's proposal organically blends a generic model with a thematic concern to explain how women writing community often turn to a particular narrative style that itself supports the literary creation of that community Harde and the volume contributors appropriate this brilliant and engaging proposal in the context of other crucial discussions of the genre notably Forest Ingram's germinal study J Gerald Kennedy's work and those by Robert Luscher Maggie Dunn and Anne Morris James Nagel Gerald Lynch and I'm honored to note my own study on Asian American short story cycles to expand the range of the critical discussion on the form The quality and diversity of the essays remind us that there is still much work that can be done in the area of genre studies The volume emphasizes an important caveat to one vital misconception that although writers like James Joyce or Sherwood Anderson are thought to be the precursors or even inventors of the form women's sequences by Sara Orne Jewett and Elizabeth Gaskell among others actually predate the work of the male writers This fact suggests that the development of the form as a genre that attends to specific perspectives or creative formulations of and by women needs to be considered in depth The temporal scope of the volume is therefore a vital contribution to scholarship on the form as is the diversity of the writers analyzed Indeed the examination of narratives by writers from different countries and that focus on characters from different time periods racial religious or ethnic communities and social class impels a multilayered reading of the texts that inevitably promotes a nuanced understanding of the project of each of the writers a project that connects issues of individuality and community in varied and often surprising ways The essays thus critically explore the notion of community in its myriad associations with the individual and as a crucial site not only for women's action upon the world but also for her creative endeavors The essays in the volume revisit familiar texts Naylor's The Women of Brewster Place Cisneros's The House on Mango Street Kingston's The Woman Warrior Welty's The Golden Apples Munro's The Lives of Girls and Women among others but offer new perspectives on the way form interacts with issues of women's communities and women creating community in these works Significantly it also offers readings on texts that have not been analyzed in detail from this perspective Gaskell's Cranford or Woolf's A Haunted House for example thus contributing to a continuing conversation about the ways women write The juxtaposition of the familiar and the new expand the paradigms of current criticism not only on the story cycle but also on women's writing in general Rocio Davis Professor of Literature University of Navarre Roxanne Harde's forthcoming volume Narratives of Community Women's Short Story Sequences provides an abundant collection of varied responses to Sandra Zagarell's longstanding call for further in depth exploration of the genre that Zagarell christened the narrative of community in her 1988 essay linking non novelistic narrative form with representations of female experience As Harde observes such narratives of community overlap significantly with the growing canon of unified but discontinuous collections of autonomous stories that critics have variously labeled as the short story cycle sequence composite The essays in her collection examine a rich variety of such works by women extending the scholarship in this area Harde s ample collection of essays presents a concerted and diverse exploration of the implications of the short story sequence form as a representation of women s lives as part of and in conflict with membership in a community Overall Harde s volume is a welcome addition to current scholarship on the short story sequence bringing in a variety of new voices and perspectives to the community of scholars who have engaged in the exploration of this paradoxical evolving and increasingly popular genre Dr Luscher Popular New Orleans Florian Freitag,2020-10-01 New Orleans is unique which is precisely why there are many Crescent Cities all over the world for almost 150 years writers artists cultural brokers and entrepreneurs have drawn on and simultaneously contributed to New Orleans s fame and popularity by recreating the city in popular media from literature photographs and plays to movies television shows and theme parks Addressing students and fans of the city and of popular culture Popular New Orleans examines three pivotal moments in the history of New Orleans in popular media the creation of the popular image of the Crescent City during the late nineteenth century in the local color writings published in Scribner s Monthly Century Magazine the translation of this image into three dimensional immersive spaces during the twentieth century in Disney s theme parks and resorts in California Florida and Japan and the radical transformation of this image following Hurricane Katrina in public performances such as Mardi Gras parades and operas Covering visions of the Crescent City from George W Cable s Old Creole Days stories 1873 1876 to Disneyland s New Orleans Square 1966 to Rosalyn Story s opera Wading Home 2015 Popular New Orleans traces how popular images of New Orleans have changed from exceptional to exemplary Balcony Stories Grace Elizabeth King,1925 Balcony Stories King Grace Elizabeth,2016-06-20 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 We have not used OCR Optical Character Recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 In books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy Literary News ,1893 American Women Writers of the 19th Century Heidi M. Hanrahan,2025-04-03 The nineteenth century was a period of prolific literary production from women writers including figures such as Louisa May Alcott Harriet Jacobs and Zitkala a who played pivotal roles in American literary history Despite facing societal forces aimed at silencing them women writers found ways to assert their voices and contribute to the intellectual and political debates of the era Their works contribute to conversations on a wide range of topics including art gender social reform slavery abolition economic and social inequality national expansion Native

American dispossession and the changing identity of the nation Both retrospective and forward looking their written works found diverse audiences of men women and children This book functions as a comprehensive guide to understanding the breadth of nineteenth century women s writing exploring not only the writers and their texts but also the literary periods genres and key cultural historical and social movements that shaped their works By examining these authors impact on American literary traditions and their role in cultural discourse it highlights the lasting relevance of their work in both historical and contemporary contexts
