Tourism in Bangladesh: Investment and Development Perspectives Azizul Hassan, 2022-01-05. This edited volume uniquely explores the extensive themes and frameworks of tourism development and investment in Bangladesh. The book focuses on outlining the present investment and development scenario of Bangladesh in order to suggest some solutions to current issues. Considering that Bangladesh has a population of over 170 million, the country possesses an abundance of possibilities for tourism. In recent years, Bangladesh has experienced steady growth in its economy and socio-cultural developments. Currently, there is very limited knowledge of or research into tourism in Bangladesh, even though it is a multifaceted and fast-growing industry. This book makes an important contribution to representing and exploring diverse aspects of tourism in Bangladesh for local and international benefit. This book provides insights into the stronghold of a social class having the ability to spend for tourism and leisure activities, which has prompted the country to pay further attention to the development of its tourism industry. This book emphasizes that the importance of tourism is undeniably on a continuous rise in Bangladesh, which in turn deserves the appropriate attention from academic research.

Arsenic Mitigation in Rural Bangladesh Wardatul Akmam, 2017-12-20. Based on micro-level empirical research, this book uniquely addresses the problem of arsenic contamination in ground water in Bangladesh in a comprehensive way. At the outset, the book puts forward the opinions of experts regarding the cause of arsenic contamination in ground water in Bangladesh, followed by sample surveys depicting socioeconomic and arsenic-related situations in three arsenic-affected villages in Meherpur district, Bangladesh. The major contribution of the author is the mixed integer Pareto optimality model, tested and proved through computer simulation, developed in order to supply safe water to the badly affected people in Taranagar village The model takes into account such issues as the costs of different safe water options exposure to arsenic and bacteria distance of the water source from home indigenous cultural traits environmental safety and acceptability of the options to the people Besides successful development and application of the model the book outlines ways to persuade people to change their habits regarding drinking tube well water and proposes a system through which safe water can be supplied to Taranagar village The book emphasizes socioeconomic environmental and administrative aspects of selecting an optimal safe water option and ensuring consumption from safe water sources which can be tested for other arsenic affected areas as well With relevant attractive charts tables graphs flowcharts and other graphics and with lucid language the book makes rather difficult theoretical economics issues easily comprehensible and interesting to general readers graduate and undergraduate students researchers and NGO GO workers who are dedicated to providing safe water to people affected by arsenic contamination Perspectives on the Third World Development P.
