Coin Hoards From Roman Britain Volume X:

Coin Hoards from Roman Britain Andrew M. Burnett, 1979 Debasement Kevin Butcher, 2020-04-30 The debasement of coinage particularly of silver was a common feature of pre modern monetary systems Most coinages were issued by state authorities and the condition of a coinage is often seen rightly or wrongly as an indicator of the broader fiscal health of the state that produced it While in some cases the motives behind the debasements or reductions in standards are clear in many cases the intentions of the issuing authorities are uncertain Various explanations have been advanced fiscal motives such as a desire to profit or a to cover a deficit caused by the failure to balance expenditure and revenues monetary motives such as changing demand for coined money or a desire to maintain monetary stability in the face of changing values of raw materials or labour costs pressure from groups within society that would profit from debasement misconduct at the mint or the decline of existing monetary standards due to circulation and wear of the coinage in circulation Certain explanations have tended to gain favour with monetary historians of specific periods partly reflecting the compartmentalization of scholarship Thus the study of Roman debasements emphasizes fiscal deficits whereas medievalists are often more prepared to consider monetary factors as contributing to debasements To some extent these different approaches are a reflection of discrepancies in the amount of documentary evidence available for the respective periods but the divide also underlines fundamentally different approaches to the function of coinage Romanists have preferred to see coins as a medium for state payments whereas medievalists have often emphasized exchange as an important function of currency The volume is inter disciplinary in scope Apart from bringing together monetary historians of different periods it also contains contributions from archaeometallurgists who have experience with the chemical and physical composition of coins and technical aspects of production of base alloys Roman Finds Richard Hingley, Steven Willis, 2007-04-10 Studies on finds in Roman Britain and the Western Provinces have come to greater prominence in the literature of recent years The quality of such work has also improved and is now theoretically informed and based on rich data sets Work on finds over the last decade or two has changed our understanding of the Roman era in profound ways and yet despite such encouraging advances and such clear worth there has to date been little in the way of a dedicated forum for the presentation and evaluation of current approaches to the study of material culture The conference at which these papers were initially presented has gone some way to redressing this and these papers bring the very latest studies on Roman finds to a wider audience Twenty papers are here presented covering various themes History and Coin Finds in Armenia Kh. A. Musheghyan, Anahit Mousheghian, Georges Depeyrot, 2000 Iron Age and Roman Coin Hoards in Britain Roger Bland, Adrian Chadwick, Colin Haselgrove, David Mattingly, 2020-06-30 More coin hoards have been recorded from Roman Britain than from any other province of the Empire This comprehensive and lavishly illustrated volume provides a survey of over 3260 hoards of Iron Age and Roman coins found in England and Wales with a detailed analysis and discussion Theories of hoarding and deposition and examined national and regional patterns in the landscape settings of coin hoards presented together with an analysis of those hoards whose findspots were surveyed and of those hoards found in archaeological excavations It also includes an unprecedented examination of the containers in which coin hoards were buried and the objects found with them The patterns of hoarding in Britain from the late 2nd century BC to the 5th century AD are discussed The volume also provides a survey of Britain in the 3rd century AD as a peak of over 700 hoards are known from the period from AD 253-296 This has been a particular focus of the project which has been a collaborative research venture between the University of Leicester and the British Museum funded by the AHRC The aim has been to understand the reasons behind the burial and non recovery of these finds A comprehensive online database <https://finds.org.uk/database/> underpins the project which also undertook a comprehensive GIS analysis of all the hoards and field surveys of a sample of them
