Crafting Institutions For Selfgoverning Irrigation Systems:

Crafting Institutions for Self-governing Irrigation Systems Elinor Ostrom, 1992 Polycentric Governance and Development Michael Dean McGinnis, 1999 How communities transcend the tragedy of the commons Redefining Diversity and Dynamics of Natural Resources Management in Asia, Volume 1 Ganesh Shivakoti, Ujjwal Pradhan, Helmi Helmi, 2016-09-01 Redefining Diversity and Dynamics of Natural Resources Management in Asia Volumes 1 4 brings together scientific research and policy issues across various topographical area in Asia to provide a comprehensive overview of the issues facing the region Sustainable Natural Resources Management in Dynamic Southeast Asia Volume 1 pulls together regional experts in the field to look specifically at sustainability issues across the region to see what has been implemented what the impacts have been and what other options are available In the race to be a developed region many Southeast Asian countries have foregone natural resources through haphazard use As a result the people are faced with numerous environmental challenges particularly deforestation and forest degradation biodiversity loss and ecosystem degradation reduction in soil quality and decreases in the quantity of available water Community based forest management is the involvement of local communities in the protection conservation and management of public forests to prevent degradation through sustainable practices while still responding to the basic social and economic needs of local populations When the people who depend on forest resources for their livelihoods are jointly responsible for managing and protecting them they tend to do so in a more sustainable manner by focusing on the long term benefits rather than the immediate short term gains However when tenure rights are weak unclear or insecure or offer limited benefits people are incited in extracting more immediate benefits resulting in suboptimal forest management and the reduction of carbon stocks Features case studies that cover issues such as rising levels of deforestation forest degradation regional food security ecosystem degradation biodiversity loss conflicts over natural resource use water management issues and impacts on local communities Includes contributions from local researchers who are dealing with these issues first hand and on a daily basis Includes a comparative review on REDD implementation in different communities Focuses on sustainability issues across the region Governance of Urban Wastewater Reuse for Agriculture Ganesh Keremane, 2017-05-09 This book presents a conceptual and practical tool for those involved directly or indirectly in the planning and management of basic provision of water supply wastewater and stormwater services in metropolitan regions by offering insights into governance paradigms and institutional arrangements for urban wastewater reuse in agriculture from Australia and India Instead of focusing on the technical aspects of designing and building infrastructure it provides a better understanding of the institutional and governance challenges of managing urban wastewater particularly for reuse in agriculture As water supplies fall and water stress increases in many areas the potential of wastewater as a resource is being widely recognized Today wastewater re use has become an attractive option for conserving and expanding available water supplies While wastewater re use can have many applications its use in agriculture is the most established and the one with the longest tradition Given the growing competition for freshwater from industry and cities without doubt there is going to be a rapid increase in the global use of treated wastewater making improved wastewater use in agriculture an emerging priority Even though it is a vast resource if we reclaim it properly often most wastewater is wasted Therefore in order to realize the full potential of this resource decision support in policy design and implementation Institutions and Governance is key Institutions and governance frameworks need to provide for the rights of access rights of ownership rights to manage source and treated water and the obligations of final use of recycling operations

Elinor Ostrom and the Bloomington School of Political Economy
Daniel H. Cole, Michael D. McGinnis, 2015-09-04 In addition to winning the 2009 Nobel Prize in Economic Sciences for her path breaking research on economic governance especially the commons Elinor Lin Ostrom also made important contributions to other fields of political economy and public policy This four volume compendium of papers written by Lin often with coauthors most notably her husband Vincent along with papers by others expanding on her work brings together the strands of her entire empirical analytical theoretical and methodological research program Together with Vincent s important theoretical contributions they defined a distinctive Bloomington School of political economic thought Volume 2 examines Lin s work on the commons in which she demonstrated that in many cases local resource users can solve collective action problems through common property management regimes It comprises papers including some that are not well known related to and building on the findings of Governing the Commons 1990 Part I focuses on key attributes of biophysical resources and the institutions human communities have designed to govern them Part II shows how in various social and ecological circumstances different sets of institutions facilitate or impede the long run sustainability of resources Part III highlights Ostrom s first major research project on water resources in Southern California It was a topic she and her students returned to with the specific intention of gathering data more than 50 years worth for longitudinal analyses of combined institutional and ecological change In sum this volume contextualizes what is at present thought to be Lin s greatest legacy to social science the conditions under which resources can be sustainably managed over very long periods of time by the collective action of ordinary people beyond markets and states
