Making the Grade Tony Wagner, 2003-12-16 This book provides a guide for a long overdue public dialogue about why and how we need to reinvent our nation's schools. How has the world changed for our children? What do all students need to know in light of these changes? How do we hold students and schools accountable for results? What do good schools look like and what must leaders do to create more of these schools? These are some of the questions that drive this book. The answers emerging to these questions may surprise many. The most successful public schools of the 21st century look a lot more like our 19th century village schools than our current factory model of schooling. This book describes these new village schools that have been created in the last decade and suggests that they are a prototype for the schools of the future.

The Little Book Of Life, Data-based Decision Making in Education Kim Schildkamp, Mei Kuin Lai, Lorna Earl, 2012-09-18 In a context where schools are held more and more accountable for the education they provide, data-based decision making has become increasingly important. This book brings together scholars from several countries to examine data-based decision making. Data-based decision making in this book refers to making decisions based on a broad range of evidence such as scores on students' assessments, classroom observations, etc. This book supports policy makers, people working with schools, researchers, and school leaders and teachers in the use of data by bringing together the current research conducted on data use across multiple countries into a single volume. Some of these studies are best practice studies where effective data use has led to improvements in student learning. Others provide insight into challenges in both policy and practice environments. Each of them draws on research and literature in the field.
