Cognitive Experiential Therapy:

Cognitive-experiential Therapy Melvin L. Weiner, 1985 Cognitive-Experiential Theory Seymour Epstein, 2014 In this book Epstein presents a new theory of personality referred to as cognitive experiential theory CET that is integrative of all other major personality theories The Effects of Cognitive Experiential Therapy, Using Metaphoric Cognitive Restructuring, on Impulsivity in Emotionally Disturbed Children James John Deuschle, 1986 Integrating CBT with Experiential Theory and Practice Thomas W. Treadwell, 2020-11-19 This workbook elucidates the techniques clinicians will encounter using the cognitive experiential psychodrama group therapy CEGT model This model incorporates cognitive behavioral and psychodramatic interventions to help identify and modify negative thinking behavior and interpersonal patterns Beginning with a brief overview of cognitive behavioral therapy CBT and psychodrama the book highlights concepts and techniques that are most relevant to CEGT session content The second half of the workbook provides a description of CEGT and what group members should expect through their engagement in this therapy Featured throughout are tables and exercises that create pathways to challenge dysfunctional thinking along with blank worksheets to be used by group members located in the appendices Readers will learn techniques to challenge negative thought patterns and increase engagement in positive and success based experiences through clear guidelines for behavioral interventions to help move individuals from negativity to a more positive life space Better, Deeper And More Enduring Brief Therapy Albert Ellis, 2013-06-17 In Better Deeper and More Enduring Brief Therapy Albert Ellis the founder of Rational Emotive Behavior Therapy describes how REBT can help clients significantly improve in a short period of time and effect a profound philosophical emotional behavioral change more often that can be achieved with other popular forms of therapy In a comprehensive accessible format Dr Ellis offers his theories practices verbatim sessions and other materials that help describe how REBT can be a valuable asset in psychotherapeutic treatment Holographic Reprocessing Lori S. Katz, 2012-08-06 Holographic Reprocessing HR is a cognitive experiential psychotherapy based on Seymour Epstein s theory of personality cognitive experiential self theory CEST According to CEST people have a natural adaptive system for processing information If an emotionally distressing event is not fully processed people may attempt to resolve the stuck point known as emotional blockage by unconsciously setting up situations that recreate the original experience A reenactment can facilitate a healthy confrontation of the issue but it is not uncommon that this reenactment serves to reinforce negative perceptions and behavioral reactions HR gives clients an opportunity to gain a new awareness and understanding of their re enactments thereby facilitating a constructive reorganization of their perceptual emotional and behavioral tendencies The hologram is used as a model for describing a pattern of these re enactments as each experience is a whole experience unto itself as well as being a part of a larger whole and each experience contains information consistent with the larger pattern The experience is holographic and is termed an experiential hologram These experiential holograms are holistic integrative and unique in terms of existing constructs such as a schema belief expectation self fulfilling prophecy sensitivity or script constructs that are largely cognitive and only part of the holographic picture The hologram also activates an experiential reaction including affect sensations and associations The model of the experiential hologram is intended to more closely explain human experience as it is assumed that experience itself is processed in a complex array of cognitions affective reactions sensations and associations Written by a clinical psychologist specializing in the trauma therapy this volume will guide mental health professionals through the use of holographic reprocessing in their treatment of trauma victims from sufferers of PTSD to rape victims
