Blood Ties And Fictive Ties:

Blood Ties and Fictive Ties Kristin Elizabeth Gager, 2014-07-14 In Paris during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries the practice of adopting children was strongly discouraged by cultural religious and legal authorities on the grounds that it disrupted family blood lines In fact historians have assumed that adoption had generally not been practiced in France or in the rest of Europe since late antiquity Challenging this view Kristin Gager brings to light evidence showing how married couples and single men and women from the artisan neighborhoods in early modern Paris did manage to adopt children as their legal heirs In so doing she offers a new richly detailed portrait of family life civil law and public assistance in Paris and reveals how citizens forged a wide variety of family forms in defiance of social cultural and legal norms Gager bases her work on documents ranging from previously unexplored notarized contracts of adoption to court cases theological treatises and literary texts She examines two main patterns of adoption those privately arranged between households and those of destitute children from the Parisian foundling hospice and the H tel Dieu Gager argues that although customary law rejected adoption and promoted an exclusively biological model of the family there existed an alternative domestic culture based on a variety of fictive ties Gager connects her arguments to current debates about adoption and the nature of the family in Europe and the United States Originally published in 1996 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Senses of Touch: Human Dignity and Deformity from Michelangelo to Calvin Marjorie O'Rourke Boyle, 2021-10-11 Senses of Touch anatomizes the uniquely human hand as a rhetorical figure for dignity and deformity in early modern culture It concerns a valuational shift from the contemplative ideal as signified by the sense of sight to an active reality as signified by the sense of touch From posture to piety from manicure to magic the book discovers touch in a critical period of its historical development in anatomy and society It features new interpretations of two landmarks of western civilization Michelangelo's fresco of the Creation of Adam and Calvin's doctrine of election It also accords special attention to the typing of women as sensual creatures by using their hands as a heuristic Its alternative interpretations explore in theory and in practice the sensuality the creativity and the plain utility of hands thus integrating biology and culture Doodem and Council Fire Heidi Bohaker, 2021-07-20 Providing rare insights into the doodem tradition and the concept of council fires this book explores Indigenous law and the Anishinaabe's holistic approach to governance territoriality family and kinship structures Nobility and patrimony in modern France Elizabeth C. Macknight, 2018-03-30 This study of tangible and intangible cultural heritage explains the significance of nobles' conservationist traditions for public engagement with the history of France During the French Revolution nobles' property was seized destroyed or sold off by the nation State intervention during the nineteenth century meant historic monuments became protected under law in the public interest The Journal du Patrimoine created in 1984 by the French Ministry for Culture became a Europe wide calendar event in 1991 Each year millions of French and international visitors enter residences and museums to admire France s aristocratic cultural heritage Drawing on archival evidence from across the country the book presents a compelling account of power interest and emotion in family dynamics and nobles relations with rural and urban communities

Political Concepts Adi M. Ophir, Ann Laura Stoler, 2018-01-02 Deciding what is and what is not political is a fraught perhaps intractably opaque matter Just who decides the question on what grounds to what ends these seem like properly political questions themselves Deciding what is political and what is not can serve to contain and restrain struggles make existing power relations at once self evident and opaque and blur the possibility of reimagining them differently Political Concepts seeks to revive our common political vocabulary both everyday and academic and to do so critically Its entries take the form of essays in which each contributor presents her or his own original reflection on a concept posed in the traditional Socratic question format What is X and asks what sort of work a rethinking of that concept can do for us now The explicitness of a radical questioning of this kind gives authors both the freedom and the authority to engage intervene in critique and transform the conceptual terrain they have inherited Each entry either implicitly or explicitly attempts to re open the question What is political thinking Each is an effort to reinvent political writing In this setting the political as such may be understood as a property a field of interest a dimension of human existence a set of practices or a kind of event Political Concepts does not stand upon a decided concept of the political but returns in practice and in concern to the question What is the political by submitting the question to a field of plural contention The concepts collected in Political Concepts are Arche Stathis Gourgouris Blood Gil Anidjar Colony Ann Laura Stoler Concept Adi Ophir Constituent Power Andreas Kalyvas Development Gayatri Spivak Exploitation tienne Balibar Federation Jean Cohen Identity Akeel Bilgrami Rule of Law J M Bernstein Sexual Difference Joan Copjec and Translation Jacques Lezra

Like Our Very Own Julie Berebitsky, 2000 A fascinating chapter in American social and cultural history Like Our Very Own offers compelling evidence of the role that adoption has played in our evolving efforts to define the meaning and nature of both motherhood and family

Kinship as Fiction Anindita Majumdar, Yoko Taguchi, 2024-10-25 Bringing together emerging ethnographies on kinship in South Asia this book explores the idea of kinship as fiction in intimate relationships Fictions and fictive kinship within anthropology are contested ideas Increasingly research suggests the idea of intimate relationships has to extend beyond the biological assumption of kinship relations The idea of fiction is also not free from the biological imagination or the persistent dichotomy of nature culture nurture nature This edited volume resurrects the idea of fiction and fictive ness to understand how intimate relationships may use these particular labels translate into practices or create an experiential understanding around relationships The chapters in this book reengage the idea of fiction by exploring the ambiguity within household relationships the process of making and engaging with a craft and skill and the intricacies of making children through IVF and third party involvement They challenge societal norms of marriage and being married by reframing shared substances and the relationality they carry and by remembering deceased ties through acts of resurrection Through vivid illustrations of life and living in South Asia each chapter contributes to an understanding of how fiction and reality are mutually creating each other This book will be beneficial to students academics and scholars of anthropology particularly those interested in kinship and the sociology of the family The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Contemporary South Asia
