elements in improving the quality of higher education and one of the most important elements in curriculum is needs assessment. In this book we review definitions of curriculum and needs assessment. Then we describe many tools and methods for needs assessment especially for medical curriculum planning. The aim of this book is to introduce some needs assessment tools for who want to do a need assessment for curriculum planning. There are many curriculum planning and needs assessment methods therefore we focus on only needs assessment methods that are more useful for medical curriculums. Some researchers do a task analysis to determine educational needs. Therefore in chapter 5 we introduce task analysis. And at the end of the chapter you can see some needs assessment according to task analysis for medical education.

Assessment Practice in Student Affairs John H. Schuh, M. Lee Upcraft, 2001. When Assessment in Student Affairs was first published in 1996 readers found a practical context for viewing the power of assessment across the domain of student services. Since then John H. Schuh and M. Lee Upcraft have received numerous requests for more specific guidance to assessing and communicating the value of student affairs. This manual continues the work begun in their earlier book and provides a full range of tools for conducting effective assessments. The authors begin with an overview of the assessment process and then detail a range of methodologies, approaches and issues explaining how to use them and when to recruit expertise from other campus sources. Drawing from the latest practice and a wealth of case studies they discuss: Qualitative assessment including how to conduct focus groups; Quantitative assessment including how to select and design instruments; Data collection and analysis including mailed questionnaires, telephone surveys and Web based surveys; Assessing diverse needs: satisfaction, outcomes, environments, cost effectiveness and accreditation; Specialized assessment studies including how to review dropouts, graduates, academic success and group educational programs; Select programs in student services including first year programs, recreation programs, financial aid, admissions, residence halls, college unions, health services, career services, counseling services, judicial affairs and Greek life; Organizational and ethical approaches to assessment.

Using Benchmarking, Needs Assessment, Quality Improvement, Outcome Measurement, and Library Standards Rosalind F. Dudden, 2007. This work provides easy to follow advice for using the latest management tools. Evaluation tools are an essential part of improving service and proving the
