A Pride Of Healers:

A Pride of Healers Richard Clark Hirschhorn, 1978      Animals as Teachers and Healers Susan Chernak McElroy, 1998-02-24 Susan Chernak McElroy credits her astounding triumph over cancer to the love of the animals in her life. In Animals as Teachers Healers she shares her remarkable story along with true stories from others who have been touched by the loving energies of animals: A woman escapes an abusive relationship by observing how her boyfriend treated her two Arabian horses; a German shepherd cocoons its body around a toddler during a house fire; a coyote gives a couple wisdom about their rebellious daughter; a little three-legged frog imparts a valuable lesson to a frightened nine-year-old girl. Unique and compelling, Animals as Teachers Healers invites us to reconnect with the boundless gifts of joy, wisdom, and deep healing that flow from our ageless and intimate relationship with the animal kingdom.      The Healers Ben Zion Liber, 1928

Healing, Performance and Ceremony in the Writings of Three Early Modern Physicians: Hippolytus Guarinonius and the Brothers Felix and Thomas Platter M.A. Katritzky, 2016-12-05 While the writings of early modern medical practitioners habitually touch on performance and ceremony, few illuminate them as clearly as the Protestant physicians Felix Platter and Thomas Platter the Younger, who studied in Montpellier and practiced in their birth town of Basle, or the Catholic physician Hippolytus Guarinonius, who was born in Trent, trained in Padua, and practiced in Hall near Innsbruck. During his student years and brilliant career as early modern Basle's most distinguished municipal court and academic physician, Felix Platter built up a wide network of private, religious, and aristocratic patients. His published medical treatises and private journal record his professional encounters with them as a healer. They also offer numerous vivid accounts of theatrical events experienced by Platter as a scholar, student, and gifted semi-professional musician, and during his Grand Tour and long medical career. Here Felix Platter's accounts, many unavailable in translation, are examined together with relevant extracts from the journals of his younger brother Thomas Platter and Guarinonius's medical and religious treatises. Thomas Platter is known to Shakespeare scholars as the Swiss Grand Tourist who recorded a 1599 London performance of Julius Caesar, and Guarinonius's descriptions of quack performances represent the earliest substantial written record of commedia dell'arte lazzi or comic stage business. These three physicians' records of ceremony, festival, theatre, and marketplace diversions are examined in detail, with particular emphasis on the reactions of respectable medical practitioners to healing performers and the performance of healing. Taken as a whole, their writings contribute to our understanding of many aspects of European theatrical culture and its complex interfaces with early modern healthcare in carnival and other routine manifestations of the Christian festive year in the extraordinary performance and ceremony of court festivals and, above all, in the rarely welcomed intrusions of quacks and other itinerant performers.      Healing Narratives Gay Alden Wilentz, 2000 Exploring the relationship between culture and health, this text provides readings of the works of five women writers tracing their common structure of a main character moving from a state of mental or physical disease toward wellness through reconnection with her cultural traditions     Leaves of Healing ,1922     Christian Science Healing Henrietta Frances Lord,1888
