Dita Greg Randall,2025-11-13 One magical spring afternoon when the leaves on the trees were budding and the birds in the air were singing Walter Kaaden a mechanical engineer looking for work found an abandoned motorcycle deep in the forest outside of Zschopau East Germany Walter used the principles of V 2 rocketry he learned from Werner von Braun at Peenemunde to coax the genie trapped inside Dita's piddly 50 cc motor to life Under his care and attention Dita became the fastest motorcycle on the Continental Circuit An angel yet still a trickster she loved men and women indiscriminately British Canadian or German the only person she couldn't get was the Italian she hadn't met Greg Randall captures the seduction of motorcycling and the eroticism of the mechanical Dita is not just about racing winning and twisting wrenches it is about harmony finding your place in this world and the art of living well together What more could you ask for perhaps a slightly faster bike
